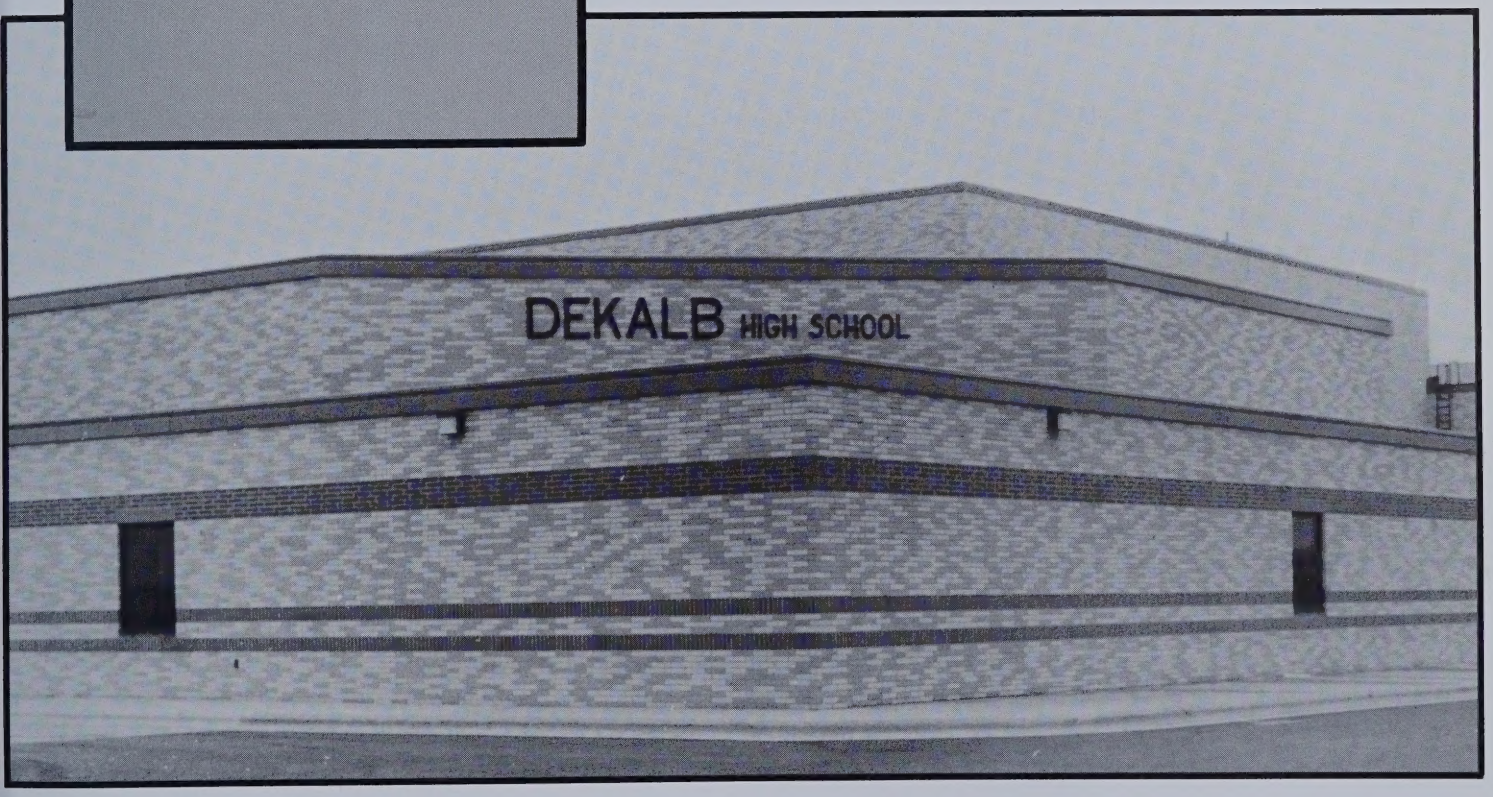
Volume 25



DeKalb High School

Look

at us

It's still called DeKalb High School, but it isn't exactly the same school that first opened its doors 25 years ago. Yes, this year marked the Silver Anniversary of DHS and, although some things were still the same, much had changed in those 25 years. So in this 25th Volume of the Saber, we're asking you to Look at us NOW!

The theme of Volume One of the Saber was "Unity," as the yearbook staff 25 years ago tried to show how students from three high schools (Ashley, Auburn, and Waterloo) combined to form one school. Unity was no longer a question for us in 1992 because of the Baron traditions that have developed over these 25 years so that loyalties as Aces, Red Devils, and Wildcats have been long forgotten. Look at us NOW!

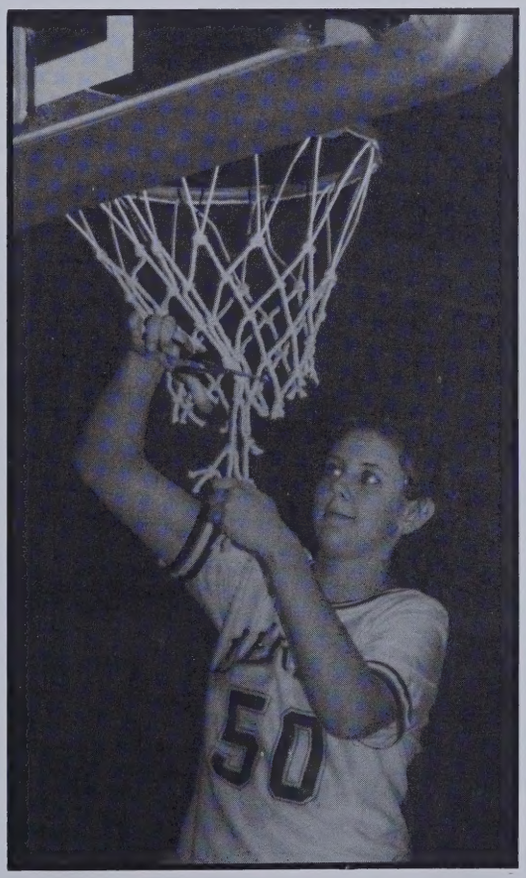
Even the appearance of the school has changed--mainly because of last year's building project which added much-needed space and gave nearly the whole school a face lift. So, even on the outside, we ask you to Look at us NOW!

NOW!

Look at us NOW! The student body stands and answers "I feel great" in response to a question from a convo speaker. Pep sessions were no longer held in 1991-92, but Baron Spirit was still alive.



Look at us NOW! Girls' sports have grown in the past 25 years. Here, Tara Muzzillo cuts down the sectional net for girls' basketball.

Look at us NOW! Matt Keller and Tim Strawser are "on stage" in the fall play, a production of "Ten Little Indians."

College Day gives Peggy Sanders, Angie Smolek, Londa Louthan, and Emily Miller a chance to learn more about various colleges such as DePauw University.

The demonstration about static electricity during the science convo put on by Purdue University has Kevin Gillian's hair standing on end.

Acknowledging the cheers of his many fans is Jason Hunter as he takes part in the Mr. DeKalb County contest. At the end of the evening, Jason was named the winner and the new Mr. DeKalb.

With highs in the 90's, Derrick Bowers, Brent Bailey, and Jason Hunter enjoy working at the auction.

Yes, he does smile. Mr. Rod Knox seems to be enjoying the fair with his daughter.

Below are some of the record number of cars parked by DHS students at the auction grounds.

Fall Holidays Mean Vacation From School

ACD Days, Fair

Concealing her nervous butterflies, Londa Louthan smiles on-stage as she takes part in the Miss DeKalb County contest.

There are two special events that happen early in the school year in DeKalb County. The first vacation DHS had from school was ACD Days,when classic cars from all over the country converge on Auburn during Labor Day weekend.

During those days some of us slumbered while the rest of us slaved. "The sun tanned us while we parked cars,picked up trash,washed cars,and rode around in golf cars," said junior Joy Pepple. The days spent at Kruse International's auction grounds were long and profitable for Kruse and for various departments of DeKalb.

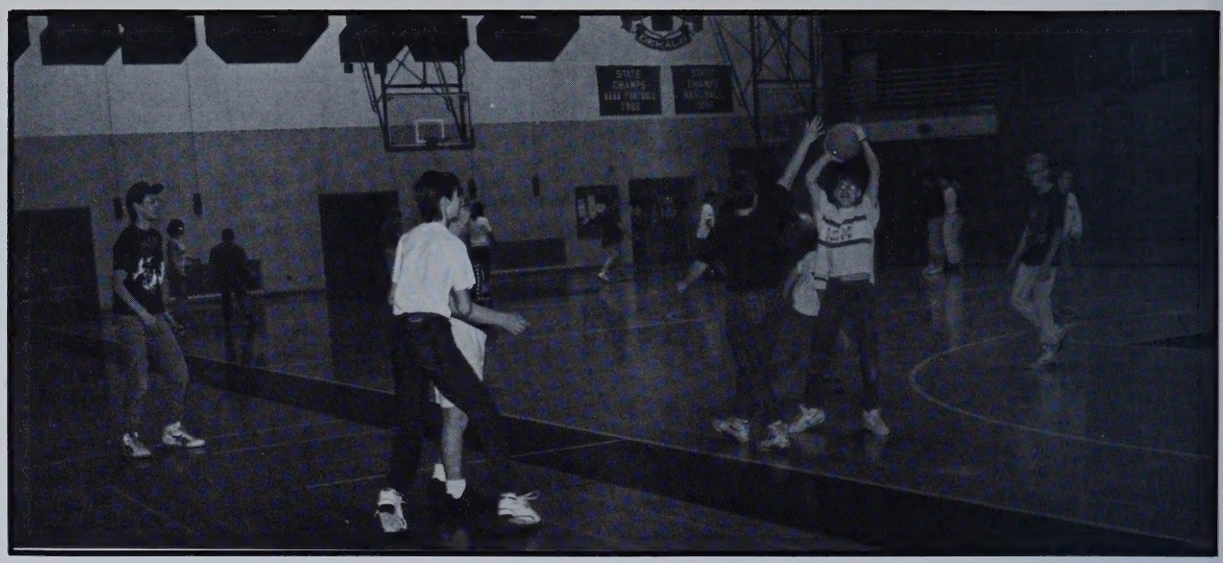
What's the one part of fall that makes everyone act like a kid again? The Fair! It also marks our second one-day vacation from school and happens at the end of September.

Other than the games, prizes and food, what takes us to the midway in downtown Auburn after school and keeps us there till they kick us out? Maybe it's being with friends and spending all our money.

There's always the animals, parades, and the Miss DeKalb County pageant. "For me,it's getting away from my parents and hanging with my friends," said one of DeKalb's drummers.

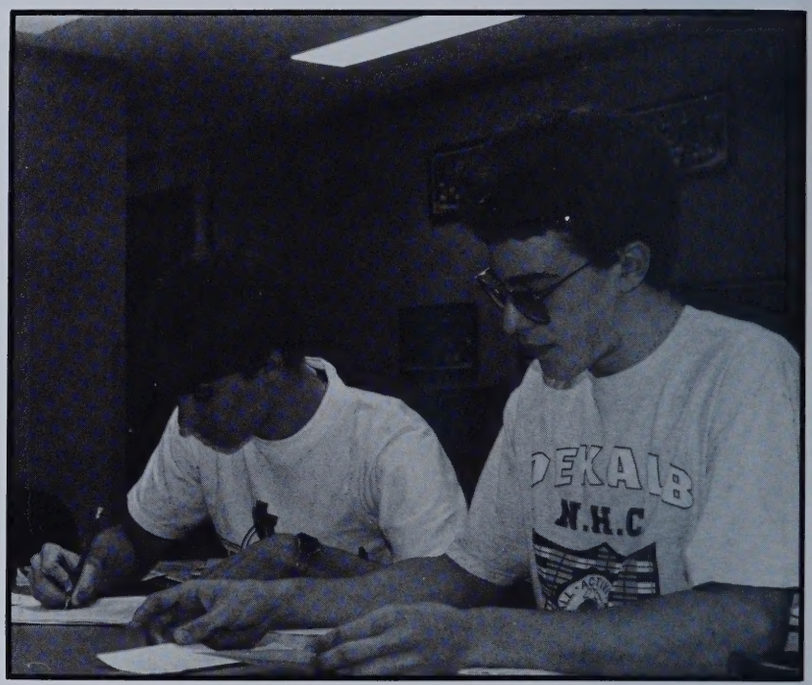
The Parade of the Classics during ACD Days includes DHS's own Misti Hall, appearing as Miss Auburn.

Don McKean and Brian Miller make sure Chris Opper and Neal Woodruff have their tickets and their hands stamped.



Playing basketball during lunch is just another way to pass the time during school hours. Here, Rick Paradise attempts to make a pass.

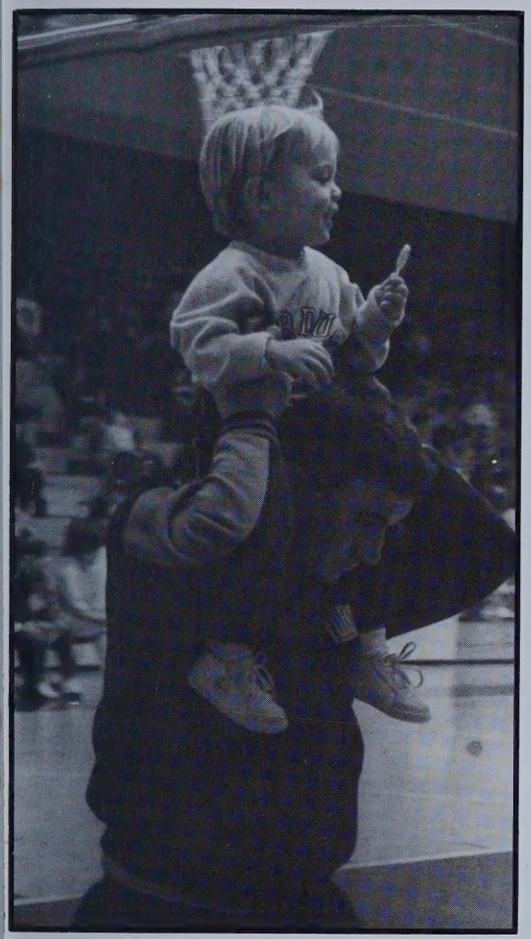
Misty Wells, James Lent, and Kenny Zortman socialize in the hall during lunch hour.



Working as student service for the main office are Kurt Ditmars and Brian Cashdollar (right, above).

Chad Depew, Jamie Ketzenberger, and Scott Clevenger watch as Doug Colbart works on a layout pattern for the Baron Shield.

Easy does it! Little Luke Oneal gets a shoulder ride from his baby sitter Don McKean at a home basketball game.



Spare Time On Your Hands?

Try Student Service

Students find many things to do in their spare time. Many students are involved in after-school activities like softball, track, basketball, tennis, and even golf. If students aren't interested in sports, but want something to do, they can get involved in school plays, SADD, or Campus Life.

But not everyone has time or is interested in after-school activities. Many students have after-school jobs or just want to have fun with their friends. Some students might even be getting their homework done for the next day.

For those with spare time during the school day, student service is an option. The student service workers in the office get enough exercise by taking passes or messages to students and walking from classroom to classroom collecting the attendance sheets. They also file student notes and attendance sheets, place information in teachers' mailboxes, and do other miscellaneous projects Marcy or Mandy give them to do.

The guidance office has their student service doing many of the same things. They also alphabetize many different things, help the students who come in, and answer as many questions as they can. They also show new students around. But their most important job is taking orders from Rosemary.

Those student who help out the teachers have various duties. Among the more routine duties are things such as grading papers, typing, taking attendance, and cleaning. Some of the more unusual jobs are changing display cases, working on cars, fixing machinery, and making phone calls.

Are Matt Keller (William Blore) and Ryan Meschberger (Sir Lawerance Wargrave) ignoring Kristy's death?

Addam Camp listens with interest as Kevin Sells compares the Judge to a tortoise.

During a flash-back of death, Sheri Lewis finds comfort from Addam Camp, Matt Keller, and Kevin Sells.

Armed, dangerous, and ready to kill, Sheri Lewis as Vera Claythorne, is very nervous about the situation on the island.

Christie Murder Story Mystifies Audience

Ten Little Indians

A murder story by Agatha Christie--what could be better? How about ten murders in one story?

November 22 and 23,Mrs. Shelley Johnson,along with her husband Kent,directed Agatha Christie's "Ten Little Indians."

With its setting off the coast of Devon,the play opens with a nursery rhyme--a rhyme of a little Indian and how his life ended. To a Byzantine morturary on the island,eight assorted guests have been invited for a weekend by a mysterious host. The guests have never met their host. But neither have the housekeeper,butler,or boatman.

When the excitement began,it never let down until the final curtain. The nerve specialist,accused of murder by operating while drunk,is pushed off a cliff;the judge,who sentenced an innocent man to die,is found limp in a chair with a gunshot wound in his head;the spinster,who drove a servant girl to suicide,is dispatched with a hypodermic;the detective,who caused an innocent man to die,is garroted;the general,who sent his wife's lover on a fatal mission,is stabbed;and so on, in a phantasmagoria of gruesome (and very comical) details, involving clues, explanations,suspicions,and terror.

Kristy Conrad as Emily Brent responds, "Who, Me?" All of the play's characters were accused of having committed murder.

Apparently Sheri, Kristy, Addam, and Bob Hedden are speechless upon hearing of still another death on the island.

For Current Jobs or Future Careers

Barons Get Ready

Many DHS students have jobs. They all work for different reasons. Some work to earn money for a college education or to pay for their cars. They may even be working to get experience in a field they hope to go into after they get out of school.

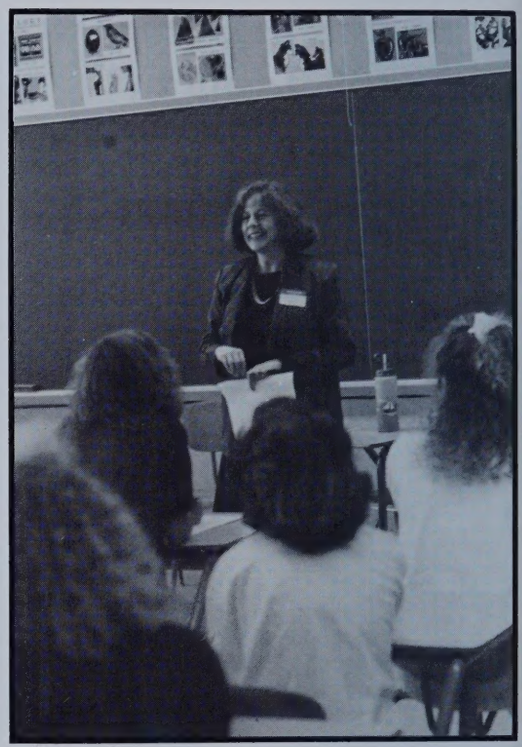
There are all kinds of jobs out there for hardworking students. You can go to almost any place of business around here and find a DHS student working. They do everything from cooking, cleaning, and being a cashier to working for an auto mechanic or installing hot water heaters.

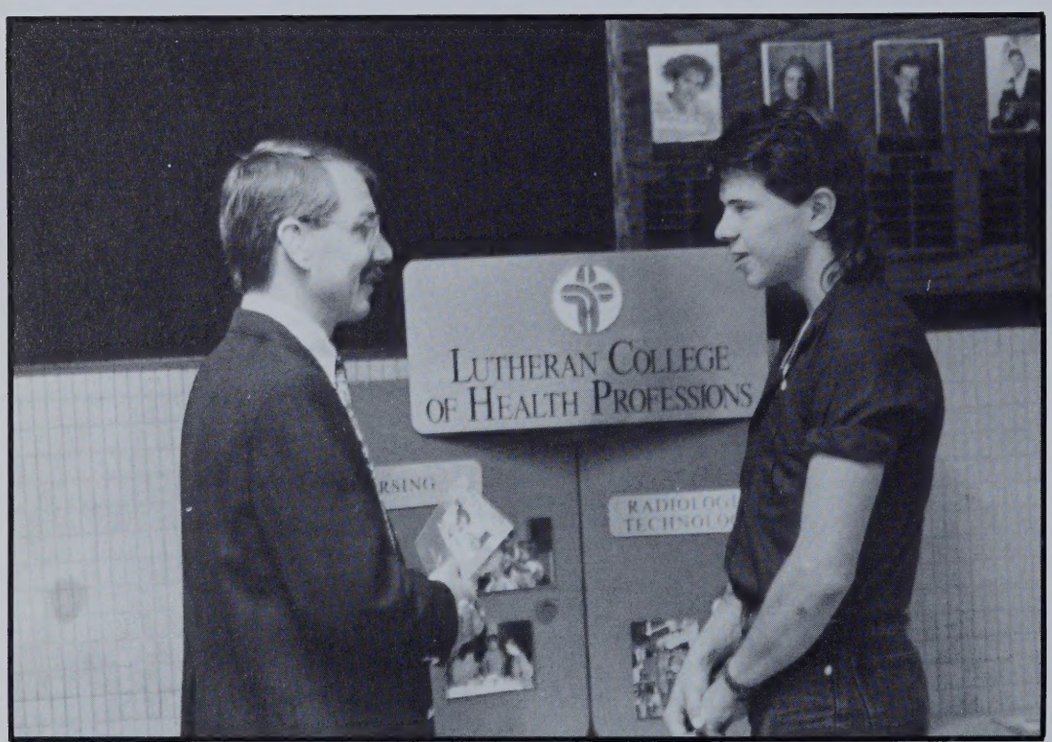
Career Day was fun and educational for everyone. All of the teachers brought in someone who works in a field related to what they teach.

The guest speakers told each class what their occupation was and explained what their job involved. Some of the guest speakers were meteorologists, freelance writers, county surveyors, interior decorators, or bankers. Some also worked for DeKalb Memorial Hospital, the Evening Star, Miller Heating & Plumbing, the ACD Museum, the Methodist Church, Jobworks, Wakefield Sales, and Auburn Parks & Recreation.

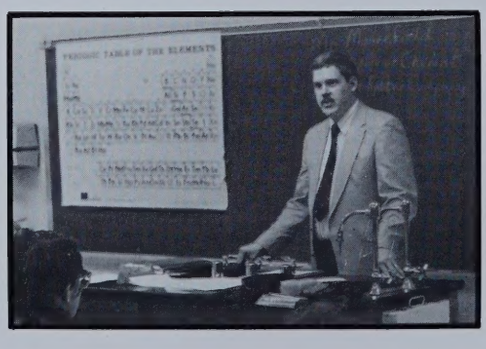
A few students also got to sign up for tours of several factories and businesses in Auburn.

Sheryl Penland, who works for Contech, enjoys herself while talking to Mrs. Williams' class about her career.





Mitch Boyd asks important questions about this particular college to get a better idea of what to do with his future.



Mr. Allen Moorefield, who has a really interesting job with Cooper Industrial Products, speaks to Mr. Barber's class.

Auburn City Council member and former Peace Corps volunteer Mike Walter speaks about public service to Mrs. Finchum's class.

Amy Sponhower is in the process of taking Denise Worman's order. Denise also works at McDonalds.

Scott Clevenger, who works at Richard's Restaurant, keeps himself busy by clearing off tables.

Many students work at Scott's Foods. Louis Wolfe is having fun bagging for some lucky shopper.

From Sadie Hawkins to Valentine Semi-Formal--

Dances Are Popular

Whether it's "The Humpty Dance" or "The Electric Slide," there's always something to do at the dances. After-the-game dances are always popular among DHS students. Especially well-liked are those with a theme. One dance held this year was the "jammie jam," sponsored by the Spanish Club. For this dance students were supposed to come in their p.j.'s and dance in their slippers. Another popular dance was the "hippie-disco" dance sponsored by the Baron Power House.

Sadie Hawkins is always a favorite because it gives the girls a chance to do the asking. Another favorite is the date sale sponsored by the National Honor Society every year.

The most popular dance had to be the Valentine semi-formal held on February 8 and sponsored by the Art Club. Everyone grabbed their main squeeze and headed to the beautifully decorated commons and danced to the theme of "To Be With You." Chris Skelding and Heather Ricks were chosen as King and Queen for this dance.

Not all dances are after games. Below, Kevin Sells and Natalie Gallogly dance at the well-attended Valentines semi-formal dance.

Hula baby Stan Sarzynski moves those hips in the hula contest at the Hawaiian dance sponsored by the junior class.

"Who will make it $5.00?" Mr. Mike Cochran looks thrilled (?) as he is auctioned by Mrs. Tita Gordon at the date-sale dance.

Say cheese! Jennifer Barnhart and Kathy Blotkamp sit by their dates at the Sadie Hawkins dance.

At the Christmas dance, Alex Pinnington and Tammy Brinkman pose with Santa Claus, while Julie Stutzman is Santa's elf.

Activities Of A Typical Student

On A Typical Day

Is there such a thing as a typical day spent by a typical student at DHS? If there were, it would probably go something like this:

"I arrive at school after a 20 minute ride on the school bus. I can't wait until next year when Mom and Dad will let me drive to school.

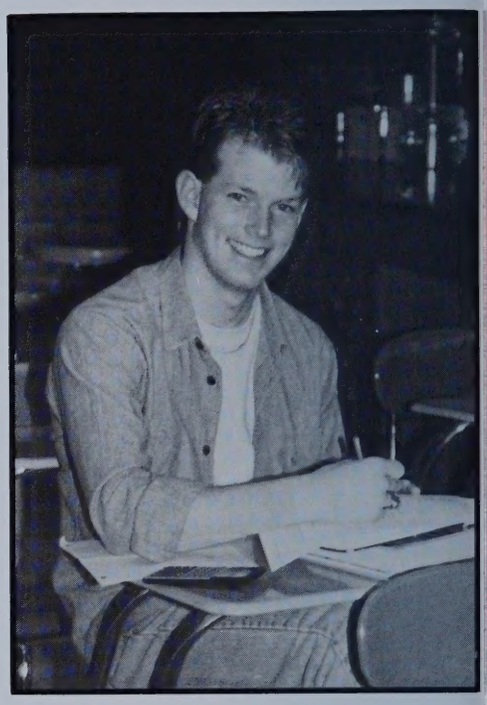
"After going to my locker to get the stuff I need for first and second hour, I walk the halls with my friends until the 8:10 warning bell and I go to class. The next break is homeroom and today Spanish Club meets, so I get to go to that.

"Lunch period for me isn't until the last part of fourth hour and I sit in class, stomach rumbling, hoping they'll save some pizza for me.

"Between sixth and seventh hours I rush in to use the rest room, but someone forgot to unlock it, so I guess I'll wait. Don't want to get my fifth tardy which means Saturday school.

"Finally 3:30 arrives and I rush to my locker to get what homework I have and hurry out to the bus. On the way home we talk about the weather forecast and hope for a snow delay or cancellation tomorrow."

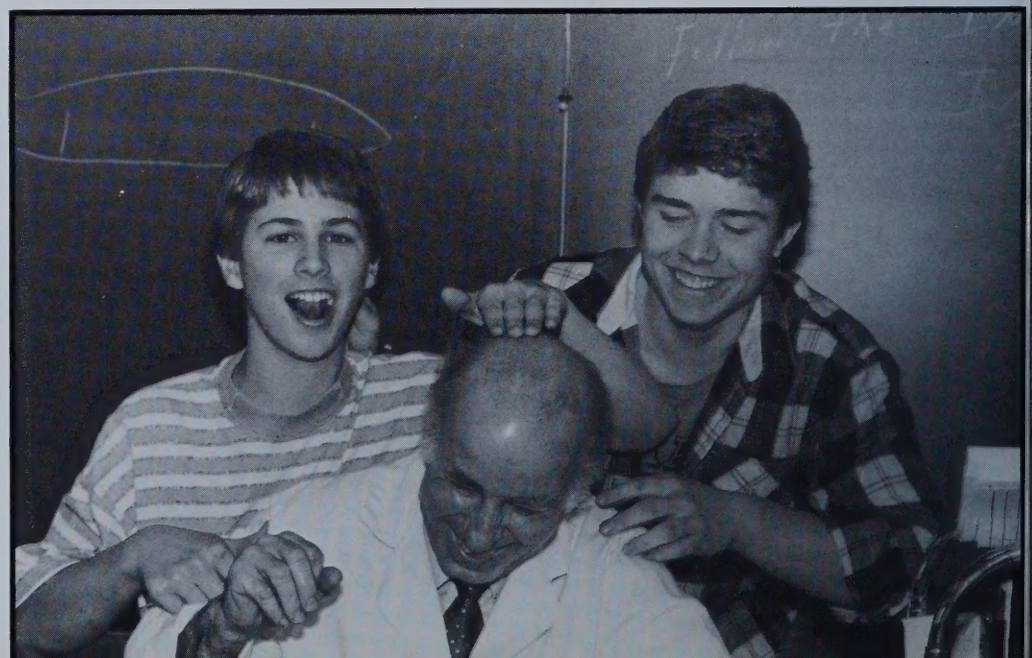
The most typical place of all for a student to be is class. Here, Zane Rice works in class on his chemistry assignment.



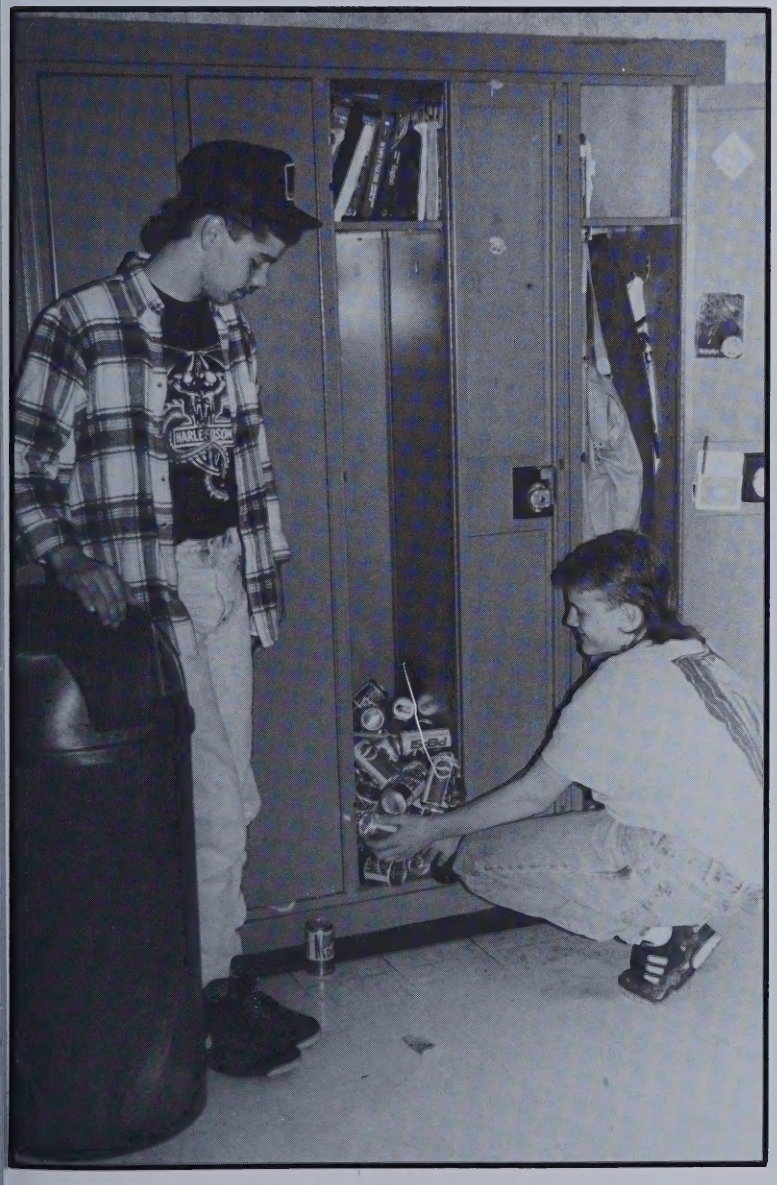
Doing a little relaxing during homeroom, these typical students don't seem to have studying on their minds (right).

Most typical girls visit the restroom mirror to check out their hair. Moneia Slentz, above, is no excpetion.

Checking out Mr. Jerry Moreland's hair, Ryan Faber and Rich Zollman take a chance to "rub it in."



The day is over and we're headed for home. The big yellow busses are all lined up and waiting for their passengers.

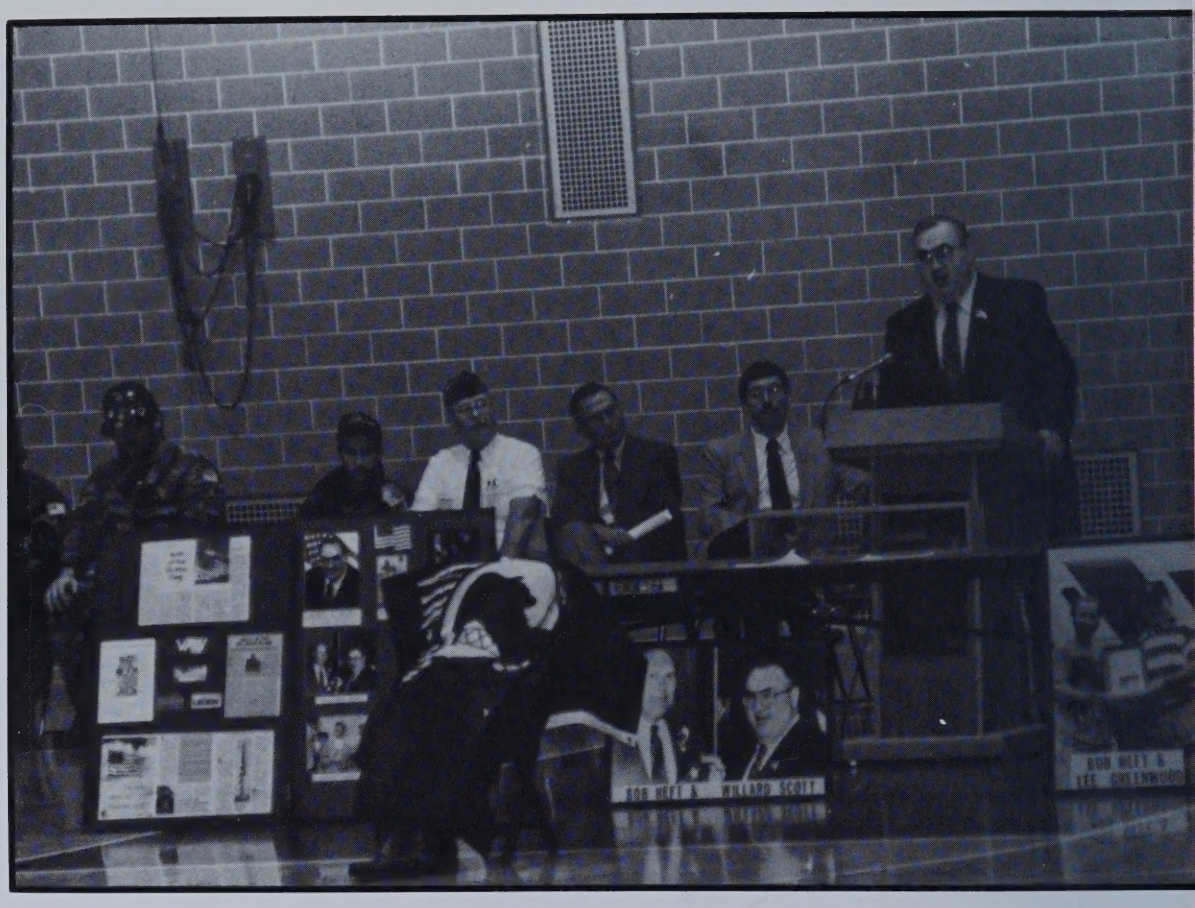


Hungry students go through the lunch line in the cafeteria. A salad bar was added this year.

Oops! Jeremy Duval watches as Bill Ward finds that someone has put some cans in his locker? Is this typical?

Mr. Bob Heft (right) describes for Veterans' Day how he designed the 50-star flag.

"Look at what I got!" Melanie Rowe displays a boo-gram that she has received for Halloween.

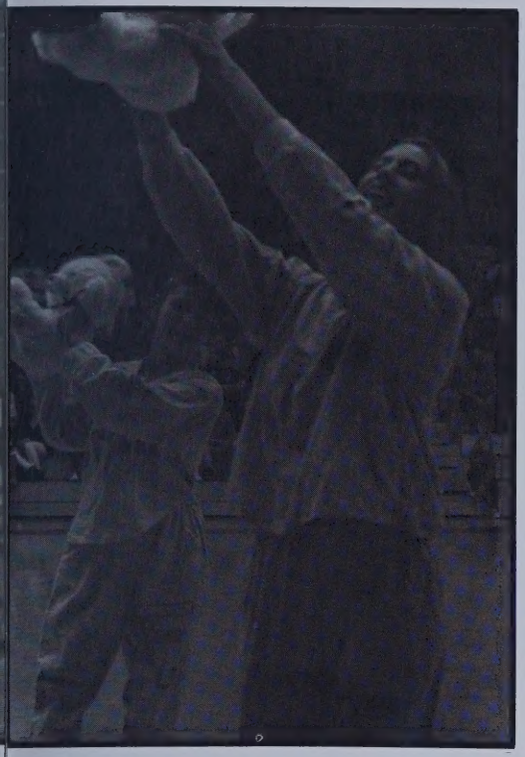


Thanksgiving dinner is dished up by Pat Hefty, Brent Brown, Becky Middaugh, and Jim Prince.

Christmas, Other Holidays Lead To ...

Celebrations Galore

One Baron Christmas tradition is the Brigadier show at a home basketball game. Below, Denissa DeWitt and Andrea Underhill perform.

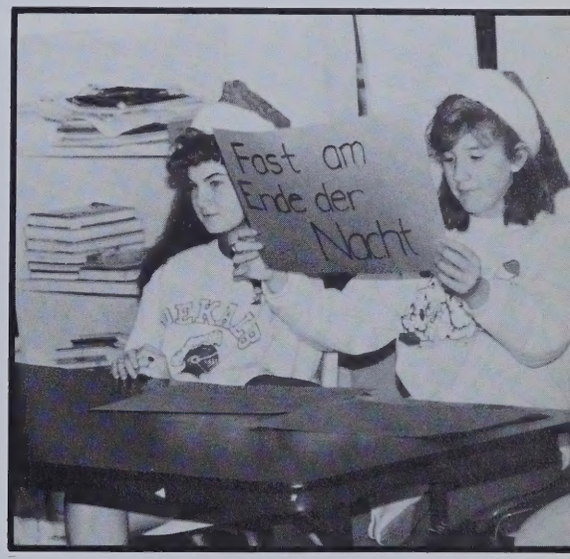


Everyone looks forward to holidays. Even at school during several of the holidays, there were many things for students to take part in.

Christmas is the most celebrated of all the holidays. The show choir performed at the Christmas convo and Mr. Jeff Malcolm as Billy Bob Mellencamp sang "I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus." Other teachers also participated in the convo. Mr. Tim Rayle, Mr. Brad Shields, and Mr. Cole Krebs did a rap song. Those people who didn't perform in the convo could send tree grams, have their picture taken with Santa at the dance, or help with the food drive.

Earlier in the year, students celebrated Veterans Day by gathering in the gym to learn how we got the flag that we use today and how it was designed. For Thanksgiving the home ec. students invited faculty and staff for a special Thanksgiving meal that they had prepared.

Other holidays were observed in various ways. Valentines Day had the traditional sale of carnations and the semi-formal dance. Easter had the sale of egg-grams and getting out of school for Good Friday. Although few people dressed up for Halloween, many purchased boo-grams for their special someone or just for a friend.



A traditional German class Christmas skit is presented by Tammy Brinkman and Mandy Buchs. Nice hats, girls!

"We will have these moments to remember." Just a few of the many couples at the Valentine semi-formal are shown enjoying a slow dance.

Baron Revue Presents Variety of ... Talent on Display

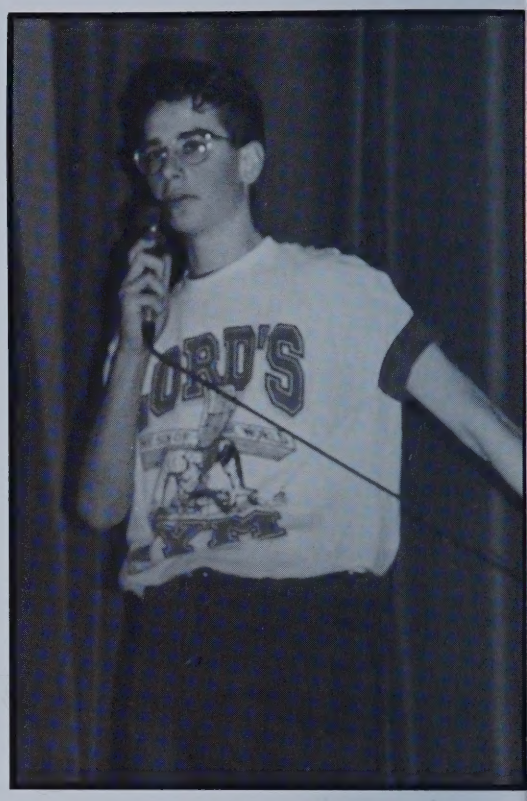
The date was March 9. The time was 7 P.M. The place was the DHS auditorium. The event? ... The Baron Revue, a variety show which put on display the talents of a large number of students. Sponsored by the Brigadiers and the Band Department, the show was under the direction of Mr. Dick Karkosky.

From the Brigadiers' opening number to the tune of "I Love Rock and Roll" to the closing dance to "Crocodile Rock," the show was fast-paced throughout. Accompanied by the Blarin' Barons Pep Band, Brigadiers also performed to "Everybody, Everybody" and "Thunder."

Instrumental solos were presented by Abby Smith (flute), Misty Farver (trombone), and Ben Peverly and Elton Bishop (saxophone). There were also several instrumental ensemble presentations, in addition to numbers by both jazz bands. Vocal solos and ensembles also entertained the crowd.

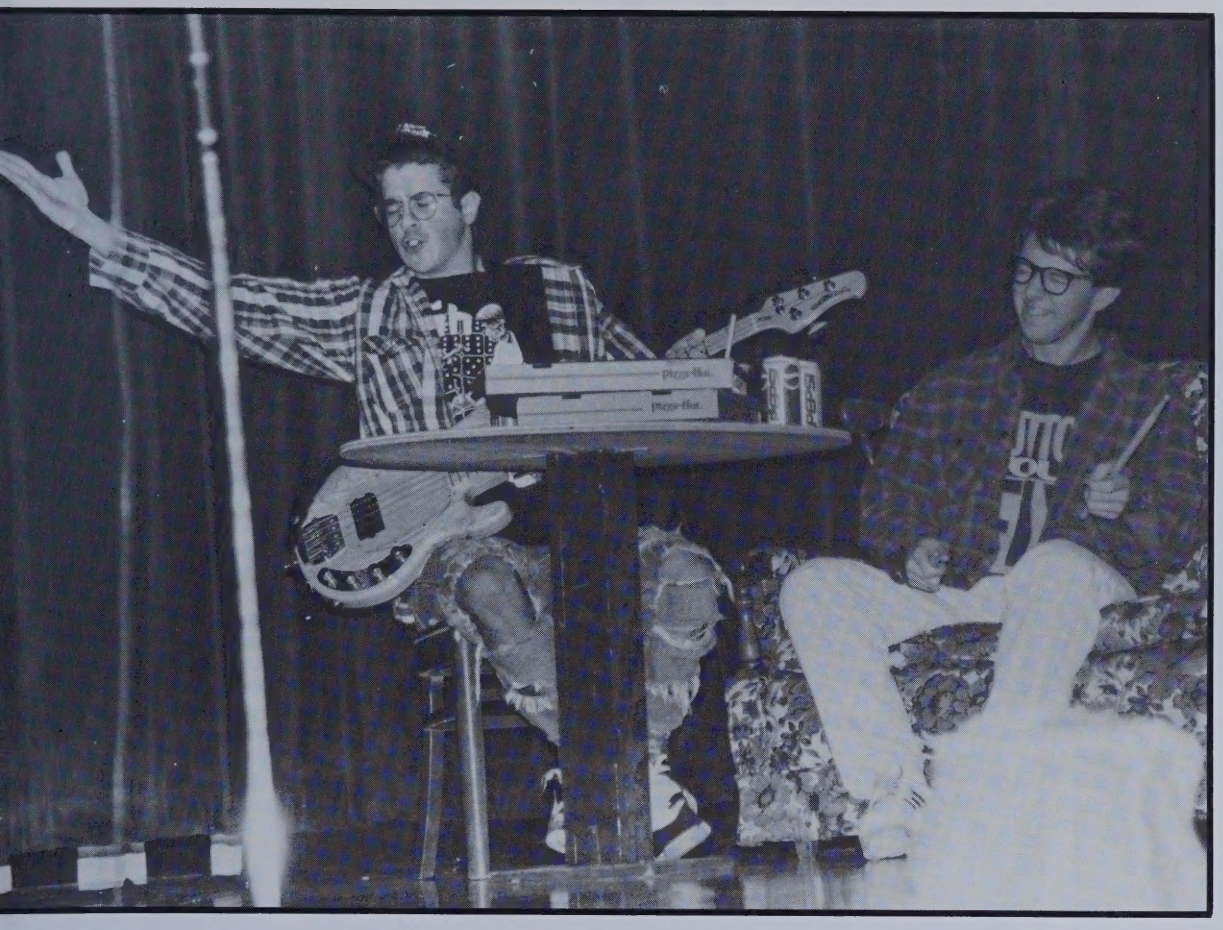
Adding to the audience's enjoyment were several humorous skits. One described "The Top Ten Reasons Why We're Bummed Communism Fell." In another, Sam Subliminal interviewed two "enthusiastic" band students, and still another portrayed President Bush and Vice-President Quayle looking forward to the 1992 election.

Humor was a primary ingredient of the Baron Revue. Below, Greg Johnson performs an entertaining stand-up comedy routine.



Captain Cina Higgins does the saber routine. Cina choreographed this exciting dance which was accompanied by a light show.

Members of Jazz Band I (right) play one of their swingin' jazz tunes that entertained the Baron Revue crowd.



Marc Bowling and John Hamman are back again telling us why they're bummed that communism fell — resembling SNL's Wayne and Garth. Party on, Marc! Party on, John!

Getting Away or Staying Home For

Spring Break Fun

Getting away from the hassle and pressure of the classroom is a major reason that Spring Break is popular among students and teachers alike. Some of us even start right after Christmas counting down the days until Spring Break arrives.

What did you do during Spring Break this year? Some Barons traveled far and wide, with the sunshine state of Florida probably being the most popular destination. Campus Life took its traditional trip to the Orlando area, and some members of the oceanography class went to the Florida Keys. They stayed in a camp there and took several boat trips and went snorkeling to study the ocean's plant and animal life.

Not everyone traveled afar. Some stayed home and worked to earn cash for car or college or went to the mall to shop. But even for those people, Spring Break was a welcome break in the routine of attending school every day.

These four ladies traveled to Cocoa Beach, Florida, for their Spring Break: Chelsea Pinkerton, Jolene Lehner, Nita Walker, and Emily Bush.

While others spent Spring Break in the Florida sun, Chris Skelding and Eric John spent theirs skiing in Steamboat, Colorado.

'Guys and Dolls' Musical Provides

Romance, Familiar Tunes

The conflict between good and evil and the problem of knowing what the "right thing to do" is and then doing it are at the center of the story of "Guys and Dolls." This light-hearted musical was performed in the DHS auditorium on May 1, 2, and 3 to the delight of all who attended.

Of course, the plot of the story revolves around romance. Some unlikely characters involved were gamblers and gangsters, a night club singer, and a Salvation Army girl. One romance got started as the result of a bet. The purpose of the bet had been to provide a place for the big crap game to happen. One thing led to another and eventually...they lived happily ever after. Mr. Kent Johnson and Mrs. Shelley Johnson were the guy and doll in charge of the play.

The pit band, under Mr. Dick Karkosky's direction, provided musical support. Some of the better known tunes included "Luck Be a Lady," "If I Were a Bell," and "Bushel and a Peck."

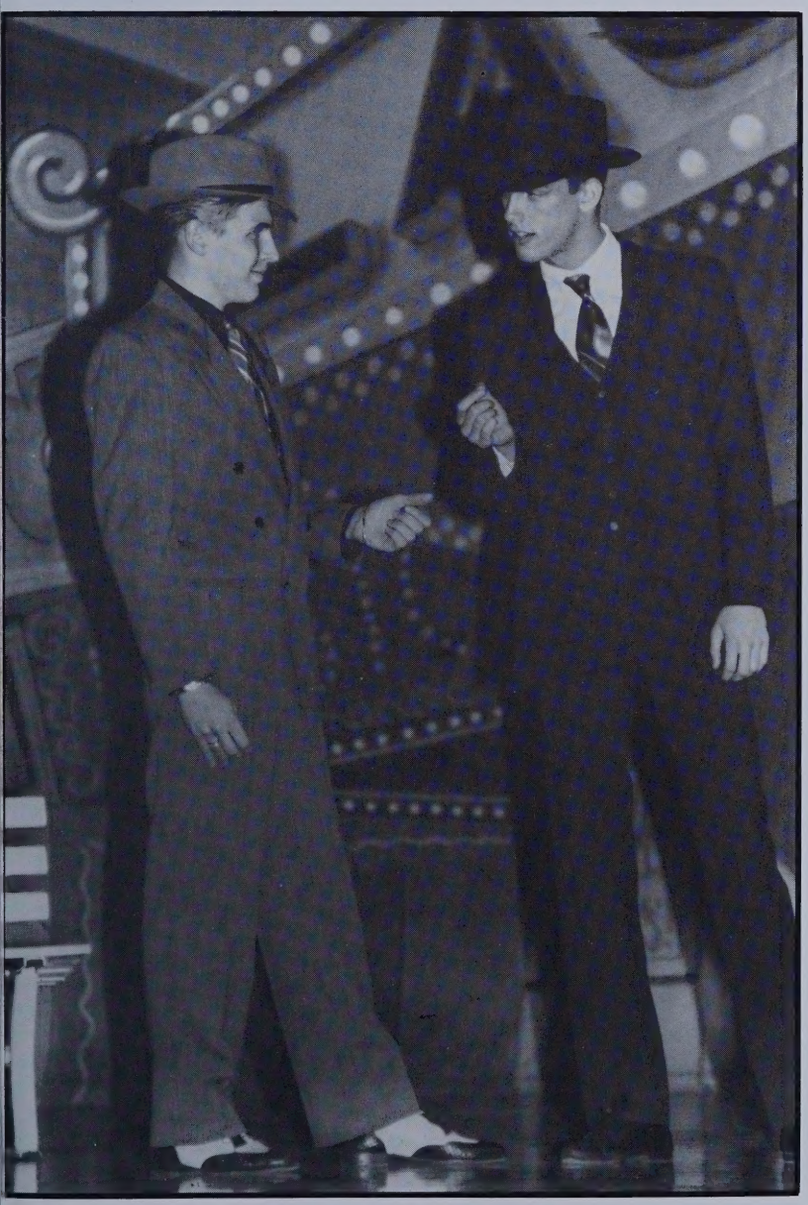
He's a changed man. By the end of the play, Sky Masterson has joined the mission in order to be with his true love.

Adelaide (Sheri Lewis) leads the Hot Box girls as they sing "Bushel and a Peck." She and Nathan Detroit have dated for 14 years.

Hoping to save some souls, Sarah Brown (Taya Hess) plays the tamborine on the street corner and sings "Follow the Fold."

Paying off a bet, the guys attend a midnight revival meeting at the mission and prepare to give their testimonies.

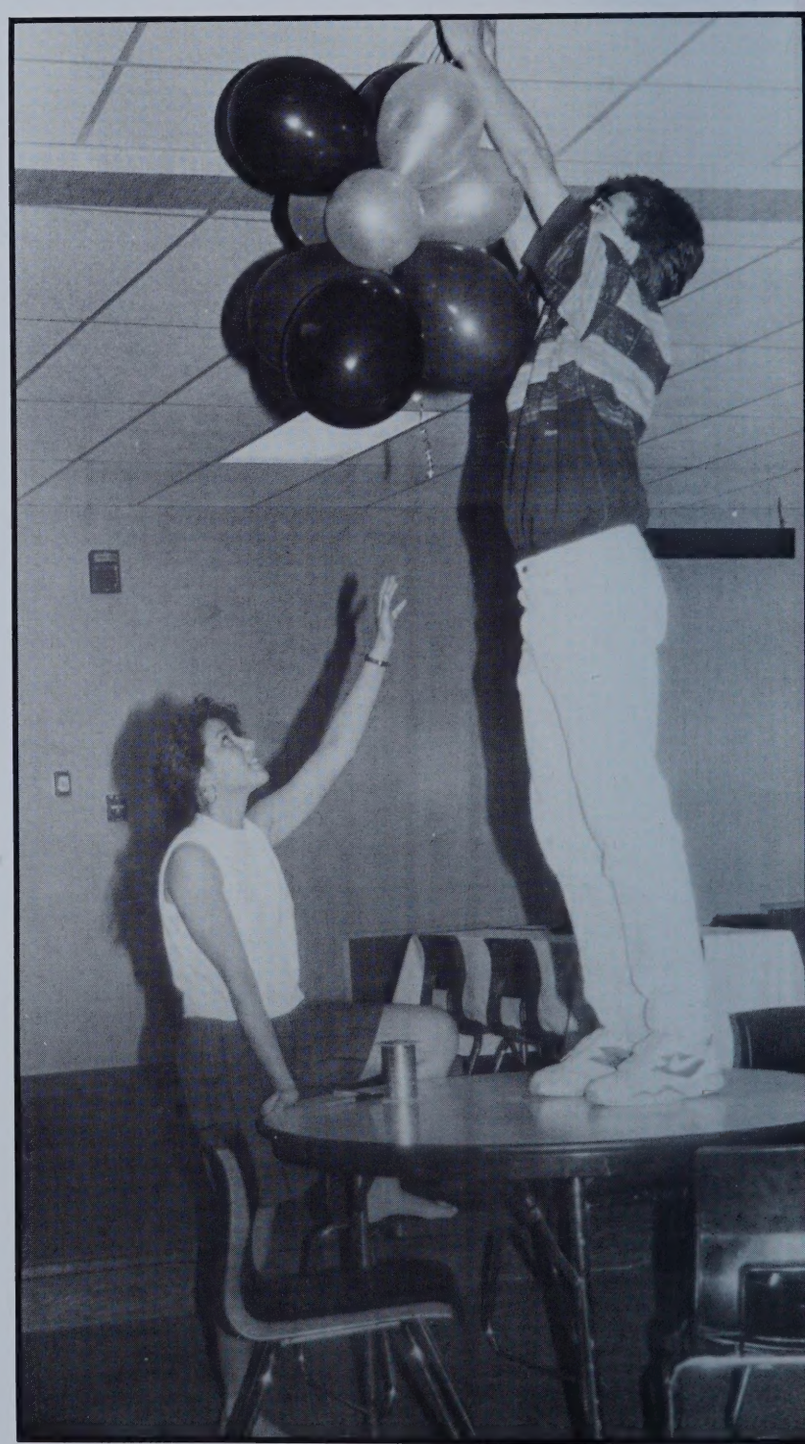
Nicely-Nicely Johnson (Steve Strobel) and Benny Southstreet (Tim Strawser) watch as Nathan Detroit (Kevin Sells) talks to Lt. Brannigan (Ryan Meschberger) of the police force.



As Agatha (Tonya Blackburn) looks on, General Cartwright (Molly McCart) seems very happy with the way things have gone.

Sky Masterson (Jason Morton) is welcomed back to town by Nathan Detroit after being somewhere out west.

"Show us your legs, ladies!" says the DJ as the couples line up for the garter dance.



Karen Birkhimer and Aaron Likens soak up the atmosphere after being named King and Queen of the Prom.

"Over to the left a little," says Joy Pepple as she and Brian Cashdollar put up prom decorations.

Prom Enjoyable As Couples

Set the Night to Music

Doug Kelley, background, is a sharp contrast to Danetta Chorpenning and Jerry Hawk, showing that size makes no difference.

"Set the Night to Music" was the theme for the Junior-Senior Prom held on Saturday, May 9. Over 400 couples attended. As they lined up for the Grand March held in the high school gym, the most popular colors seemed to be black, maroon, and silver. Before DJ Chris Cage from B-106 struck up the band, couples were escorted by limo to the DeKalb Middle School. During the evening , couples had their smiling faces photographed by Glenn Hanes. Near the end of the evening, the King and Queen Aaron Likens and Karen Birkhimer were announced and cash prizes were given to those still in attendance.

After the prom students could go to the Northway Cinema to see "White Men Can't Jump" or to Auburn Recreation Center to bowl a few games. Cash prizes and gift certificates were given away at both locations. The American Legion of Auburn served breakfast from 2:30 to 4:00 A.M. Prizes were also awarded throughout the breakfast hours. Music, pool tables, and more dancing was provided for the approximately one hundred students in attendance.

After the magical night ended and night became day, the couples said goodbye with memories in mind that should last forever.

The Grand March in the DHS gym gave everyone a chance to see the couples. Above are Jason Morton and Brandy Shuherk.

Students Show Their Talents For

Fine Arts Weekend

A certain weekend in May was something that students in the Fine Arts Department looked forward to. That was when all of their work was put on display for "the world" to see . On Thursday, May 14, everyone took the fruits of their labor to the gym to get it set up. Many students spent as much time in the gym as they could arranging and rearranging their displays so that their "stuff" would look good.

For the second year, a Purchase Award was given. After a panel of faculty judges from outside the Art Department viewed all of the items on display, a painting by Piper Merrell was selected. It was purchased from Piper and added to the school's permanent collection of student art.

The music department also got into the act. The Vocal Music Department gave two concerts during the week. Tuesday was the day for music on the light side with the Choral Pops Concert, while the more serious type was on the program Friday evening.

The instrumental musicians took the stage Saturday evening for the Jazz Concert and Sunday afternoon for the Symphonic and Concert Bands.

Taking a "Sentimental Journey" guest vocalist Judy Marlow sings with Jazz Band I at Saturday night's Jazz Concert.

District fifth graders saw the exhibit and demonstrations like this one by Kim Brammer and Elisabeth Cadle on Friday.

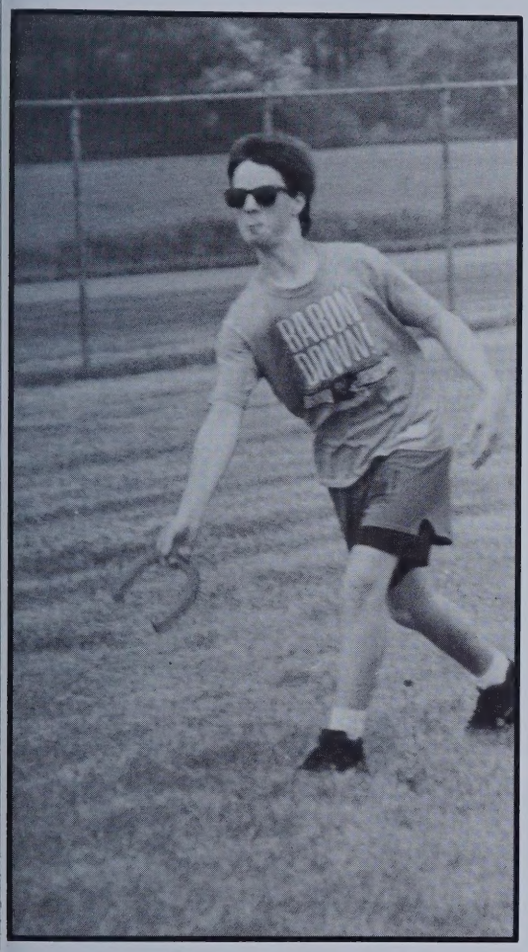
The thrill of victory is experienced by the juniors as they celebrate their superiority in the Tug of War. The Class of '93 eventually went on to win the Grand Prize.

An unofficial event in the back parking lot was skateboarding, held by students with varying degrees of skill, as can be seen below.

A test of strength and skill was the shot put event demonstrated, above right, by Chris Refner.

Even the more sedate events had their spectators, as can be seen in the Euchre Tournament, right.

Field Day included competition in all kinds of team and individual sports. Below, this student concentrates on tossing the horse shoe.



Student Council Holds Field Day

Battle of the Classes

The Student Council decided to try something new this year. They were trying to think of a way for students to get together and participate in a school activity. So they came up with a Baron Field Day: Battle of the Classes. Although Field Days had been held before, this was the first one in a long time. It was lots of fun for those who took part as well as those who watched.

The fun started on Friday, May 22, after third hour class was over and students picked up their sack lunches in the cafeteria. Some ate inside, but others went outside because the weather man co-operated by providing a nice day with temperatures in the lower 80's. The HOE class had a first aid station providing free sun block and help for any twists or cuts that might happen.

Competition was between classes. Seniors wore red; juniors, white; sophomores, black; and freshmen, gray. When results were tallied, juniors were first, followed by seniors, freshmen, and sophomores.

Events were varied and took place both inside and outside. Athletic contests included football, volleyball, big wheel race, soccer, tennis, badminton, sack race relay, and dodgeball.

For those wishing less physical activity there were Name That Tune, Euchre, Board Games, and Win, Lose or Draw. While a concert was going on in the auditorium, others attended the final three events. The Water Balloon Contest and the Tug of War were conducted without a problem, but the Bed Race could not be completed because of equipment failure.

The Tug of War requires both strength and determined looks. The seniors, left, and the juniors, above, both seem to have what it takes.

Efforts, Accomphishments Honored At Senior Awards Night

The Senior Awards program was held on the evening of May 26. The auditorium was host to anxious seniors and their parents and friends waiting to see who would receive which scholarships and other honors. Many hours had been spent filling out applications.

Representatives from many school and community organizations were on hand to recognize and reward many seniors for their hard work and accomplishments.

Outstanding seniors were named by departments as follows: Piper Merrell, Art; Emily Bush, Business; Kristy Conrad, English; Beth Shultz, Foreign Language; Tim Ostrowski, Industrial Arts; John Reinoehl, Math; Misty Farver, Music; Angela Rathburn, Science; Tim Holwerda, Social Studies; and Stacy Dunn, Vocational Arts.

The following seniors were named as four year honor students: Elizabeth Barry, Zachery Bir, Emily Bush, Mike Carper, Kristy Conrad, Scott Deetz, Tamara Doden, Misty Farver, Dan Funk, Tim Holwerda, Dwayne Leininger, and Julie Madden.

Also named as four year honor students were Emily Miller, Chris Oberlin, Angela Rathburn, Krystal Refner, John Reinoehl, Heather Ricks, Beth Shultz, Abby Smith, Rita Smith, Anita Walker, and Jason Washler.

For The Twenty-Fifth Time

Seniors Become Alumni

For the twenty-fifth time it happened. With the flip of a tassel after having the official word from Superintendent Dr. Keith Perry, 244 DHS seniors became alumni. Sunday, May 31 was the date and the main gym was the place for this auspicious event.

A departure from normal for the ceremony was a speech given by 1972 graduate Jon Duncan, currently an attorney in Chicago. This was done in honor of the school's silver anniversary.

In addition to the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance" by Edward Elgan and the Recessional, the combined bands under Mr. Dick Karkosky's direction played "Second American Folk Rhapsody" by Clare Grundeman.

The traditional speeches were given by members of the Class of 1992. Tim Holwerda presented the Invocation; Abby Smith, the Welcome; Matt Bechdol, the Intention; Heather Ricks, the Farewell; and Tamara Doden, the Benediction.

The Class of 1992 was presented by Principal Dale Hummer, after which diplomas were awarded by members of the Board of Education while Hummer read the class roll. 22 members of the class earned academic honors diplomas and 29 were named presidential academic fitness winners.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the new graduates marched out of the gym, leaving their high school years behind them.

Firmly grasping her flower, Lisa Scheurich keeps step to "Pomp and Circumstance" as she marches into the gym.

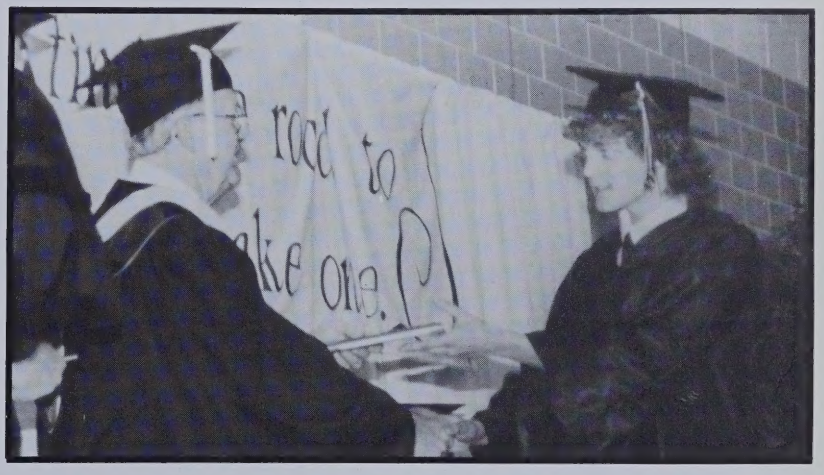
Here they are, folks, the Class of 1992! In their black and white caps and gowns, do they look ready to face the world?

The Administration and Board of Education listen as Jon Duncan, Class of '72, delivers the Alumni Address.



Shane Hays accepts his diploma from Board of Education member Mr. Robert Hartman.

Tara Sheley seems to have mixed emotions as she waits to drive her chair across the stage.

Drafting student Chad DePew makes a careful adjustment as he prepares to put some finishing touches on his drawing.

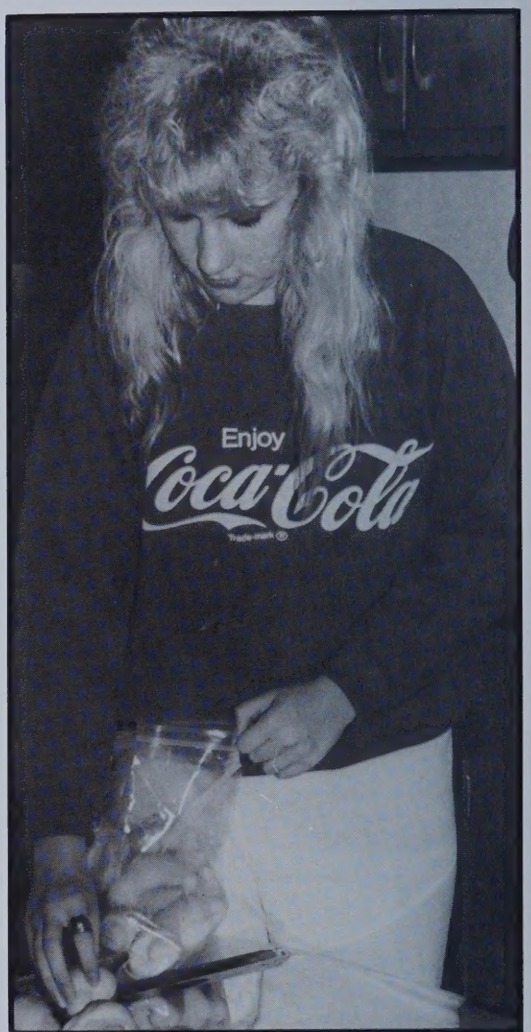
Artistic

Barons do very well in Scholastic Art Contest in Fort Wayne; Homemaking is also taught as a form of art!

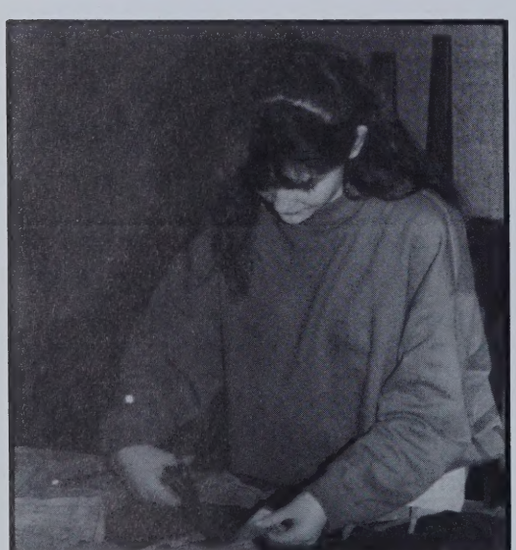
Both the Art and Home Ec Departments had several field trips and guest speakers during the year. Art is where all the colors of the world come to life. Moving into two new rooms this year gave the classes a lot more space as they worked from colors on canvas to paints on paper. The art classes visited several museums on field trips: The Indianapolis Museum of Art, the Chicago Art Institute, Fort Wayne's Museum of Art, and the Toledo Art Museum.

Drawing and Painting students made their traditional visit to the Fair to capture it on paper. Guest speakers in art included a metalsmithing demonstration and a DHS grad majoring in Graphic Arts in college who brought in her portfolio.

The Home Ec classes kept themselves busy too. The Housing class went to Auburn Mobile Homes and the Child Development class hosted a nursery school. They also had several guest speakers on topics such as foster parenting, pregnancy and birth, and adoption. The Family Care class had several speakers and then planned a wedding.



Heather Stafford sets out the rolls to heat up for the Thanksgiving dinner that home ec students served to the faculty.



Being careful not to make a mistake, Melissa Molina works hard on cutting out the pattern for her next project in clothing class.

Becky Middaugh shares a snack as she learns how to deal with children in Child Development's nursery school experience.

The new art rooms provide good natural light as Jennifer Schiffli molds a clay pot for a ceramics project.

With her subject sitting nearby on the table, Mandy Shepherd paints a water color still life in Mrs. Nagel's art room.

Laura Louthan works on throwing on the wheel. The new ceramics area was designed for easy clean-up, which it seems Laura might need.

Over 150 students and 8 awards! The grim looks are not from not achieving the year's goals.

The band (right) entertains, delights, and excites students with its powerful sound and dashing color.

The man behind it all: "Mr. K" directs the hot jazz sound of DeKalb's very own Blarin' Baron Pep Band.

The Baron Brigade lines up to play the music before marching to it. Long hours were spent out on the field.

Lyndsay Replogle shows her DeKalb spirit. A brig for two years, she seems to be enjoying it.

Musicians

endure long practices in the hot summer sun to prepare for the "Dome," where they finished seventh--again!

Confidence, determination,excellence. That's what everyone in the 1991-92 edition of DeKalb's Baron Brigade had and strived for. In the months of June through October almost 150 students devoted their summer and life to their instruments and the band. And in the end it paid off.

The Brigade marched into the Ben Davis Invitational. To them,this contest was right up there in importance with the state contest because there is stiff competition just to be invited to take part in the Ben Davis contest. They marched onto the field with pride and marched off with a second place win.

The Brigade also took home a fourth place at Concord, first at Greenfield Central, second at the ISSMA District, fourth at ISSMA Regional and the very last competition was at State where they took home a seventh place for the third year in a row.

The marching band owes a lot of its color and vision to the Brigadiers.They excited the judges and interested the fans. With their smiles and sequins, they marched off of Northrop's field with the award for best general effect. Brigadier Michelle Pollack said, "The best part of the season was being a winner--even through all the let downs and knowing we'll do it again next year. We've never been so proud to be part of the Baron Brigade."

After the state contest, the band voted for some R & R, so they listened to the song "When You Put Your Heart in It" by Kenny Rogers.

Then concert season started and one of the most fun parts of being in the band - pep band, for which over twenty of the wildest band students helped to rile up the game goers.

The pep band traveled to the Coliseum for the boys basketball conference tournament to cheer them on.

Entertaining

is a major goal as the Symphonic Band, Concert Band, and both Jazz Bands play for concerts and contests!

Keeping busy! This year DeKalb's Jazz Band I, Jazz Band II, Concert Band, and Symphonic Band entertained everyone.

Jazz Band I played romantic music for the Valentines dance. They also played concert music at a couple of convos as well as taking part in several concerts. Jazz Band I member Libby Barry received the Louis Armstrong award at the end of the year.

Jazz Band II was a training band. Even though they did not compete in contests, they performed for the public during the fall, winter, and spring concerts.

The Concert Band included over fifty students. It competed in both a fall and a spring contest sponsored by the ISSMA. Members of the Concert Band also competed in the state solo and ensemble contest.

The Symphonic Band played TV themes including the theme from The Simpsons for the Pops Concert. Members of the Symphonic Band also competed at the solo and ensemble contest in the spring. At the end of the year band director Mr. Richard Karkosky awarded Abby Smith and Misty Farver the highest award given to band students, the John Phillip Sousa award.

Let them play! Concert Band enjoys their time on stage as they warm up for their next performance.

Teresa Glick practices hard for an upcoming concert. This was her first year with band and loving every minute of it.

Does playing the flute make you dizzy? Just ask Abby Smith and Sally Peart as they play with the Symphonic Band.

Symphonic Band: Flute: Abby Smith, Sally Peart, Peggy Sanders, Amy Wilcoxson, Kim White, Robyn Rice, Andrea Mettert, Amanda Van Auken. Oboe: Carrie Behrman; Clarinet: Emily Miller, Julie Madden, Jenny Beaty, Camille Bir, Rhonda Carper, Tracy Kaduk, Aris Swank, Staci Keller, Hanae Suzuki, Rachel McPheeters, Tonya Dove, Amanda Allen, Jason Neumann. Bassoon: Elton Bishop. Sax: Ben Peverly, Jenny Creager, Jake Gillespie, Londa Louthan, Rita Smith, Adam Cunningham, Barry Snider, John Hamman, Tim Strawser, Amy Springer. Trumpet: Dan Funk, Scott Pommert, Ben Garrison, Jason Harper, Celeste Reynolds, Travis Robuck, Tara Morrison, Sheila Pommert, Sam Sprinkle, Brian Neal, Kent Prosser. Horn: Patty Vetter, Jenny McAlhany, Natalee Reese, Robert Jones. Trombone: Misty Farver, Jim Krill, Greg Johnson, Travis Roark, Pat Horwitz, Marc Bowling. Baritone: Angie Smolek, Josh Appleman, Laura Rutter. Tuba: Alex Pinnington, Todd Garman, Ryan Webb, Tom Peet. Percussion: Eric John, Libby Barry, Lisa Freeman, Adam Hill, Aaron Likens, Cathy Wilshere, Jeff Holben, Kevin Vick, Andy Kaduk, Travis Sleeper.

Languages

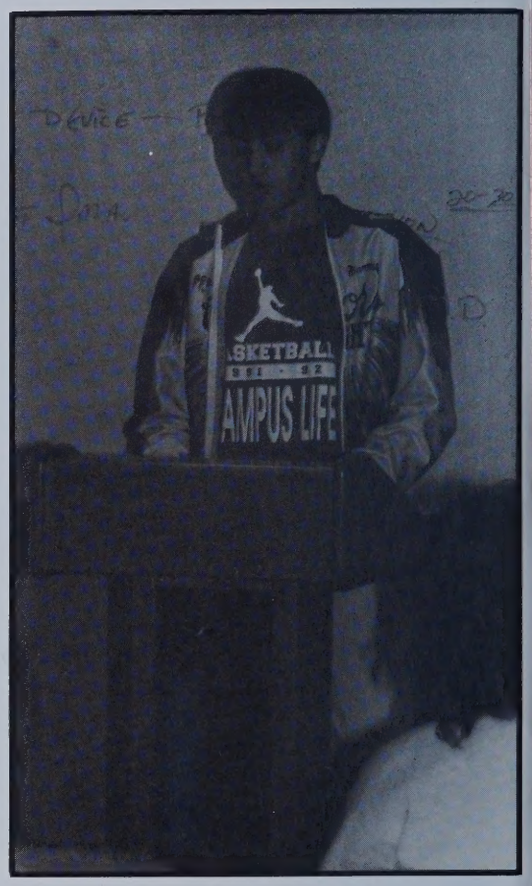
such as English, Spanish, German, French (and how to spell them) prepare Barons for living in an ever-expanding world!

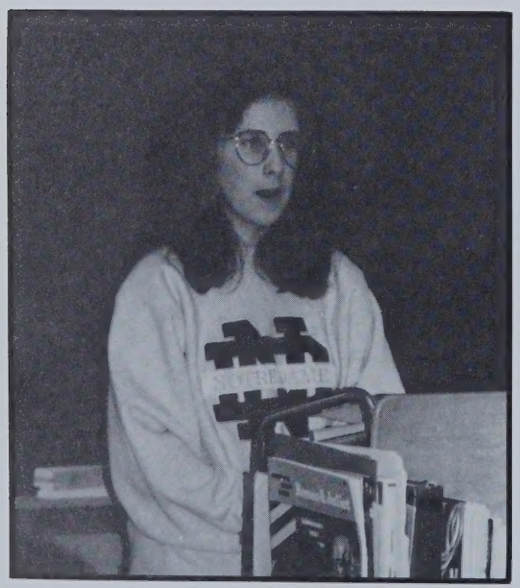
Two departments are included in Language Arts: English and Foreign Language. English is the largest department because it is required to have eight credits of English. Classes for the freshmen and sophomores are on levels academic, standard, and basic. Juniors and seniors can choose from a wide variety of writing, literature, and speech classes to fulfill their English requirement.

The Foreign Language department offers three languages: French, Spanish, and German. Taking one of these is a great way to learn about different cultures and how they speak. The Foreign Language Festival at IPFW attracted fifty students from DHS to participate in various levels of competition.

The Spell Bowl team also competed, coming in second at Garrett and fourth in the conference. At New Haven they came in second in Class I, placing them among the top 25 teams in the state. Chris Bixler and Nathan Weinhold earned first team all-NHC honors.

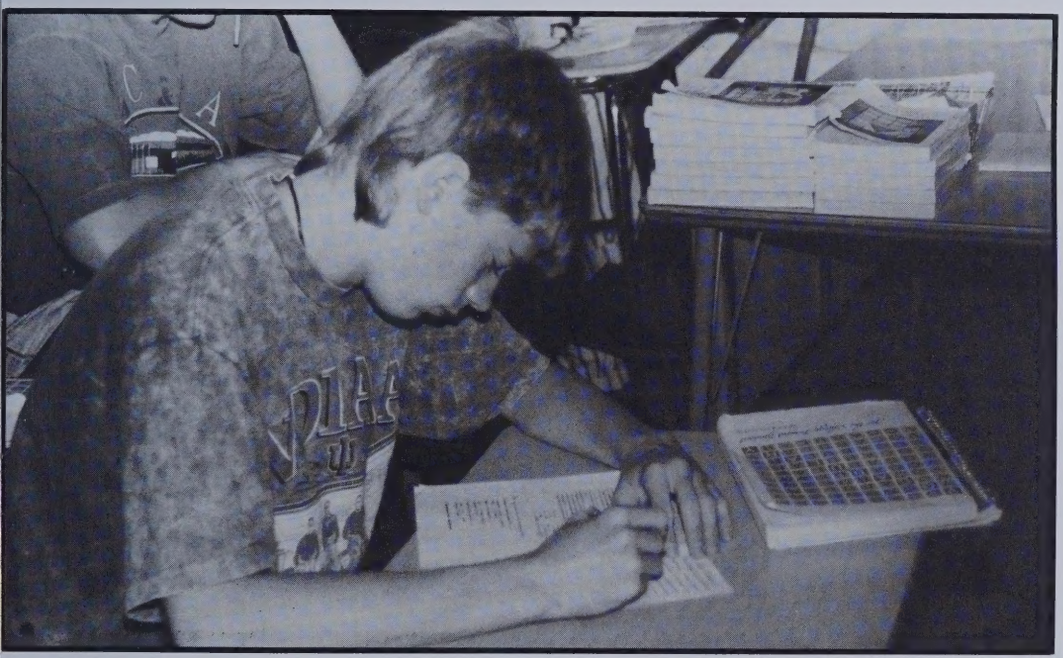
Speech class provides chances to speak to a group. Below, Corey Fuller presents his viewpoint in a parliamentary procedure study.





Her research project completed, Sarrah Chelf must now report her findings in Mrs. Metelko's freshman English class.

Todd Likens, passing by, seems to wonder what Joe Richter, Rita Smith, and Angie Smolek are doing in their German Christmas skit.



Mrs. Josie Weber, Spell Bowl coach, announces their awards at the fall convo. The team was in the state's top 25.

Who's that big guy behind you? German students seem to be enjoying themselves on their field trip to Frankenmuth, Michigan.

INdustrial

Arts classes including Woods, Metals, Electricity, and Drafting attract many Barons to learn new skills!

Is he headed for a career in metalworking? Tim Ostrowski works on the machine lathe in his Metals I class.

The Industrial Arts classes included metals, woods, electricity, and drafting. Basic graphics, basic auto mechanics, and basic building trades are also included in this department. Many of the skills that the students learn in each of these classes can be used later on in life, whether it is at home or on the job.

In the metals classes, students make all kinds of things. One student even made a replica of the Budman. Two years of classes in metals were available this year. Woods students also built all kinds of projects. One student in Woods II made a table. There were three years of woods available.

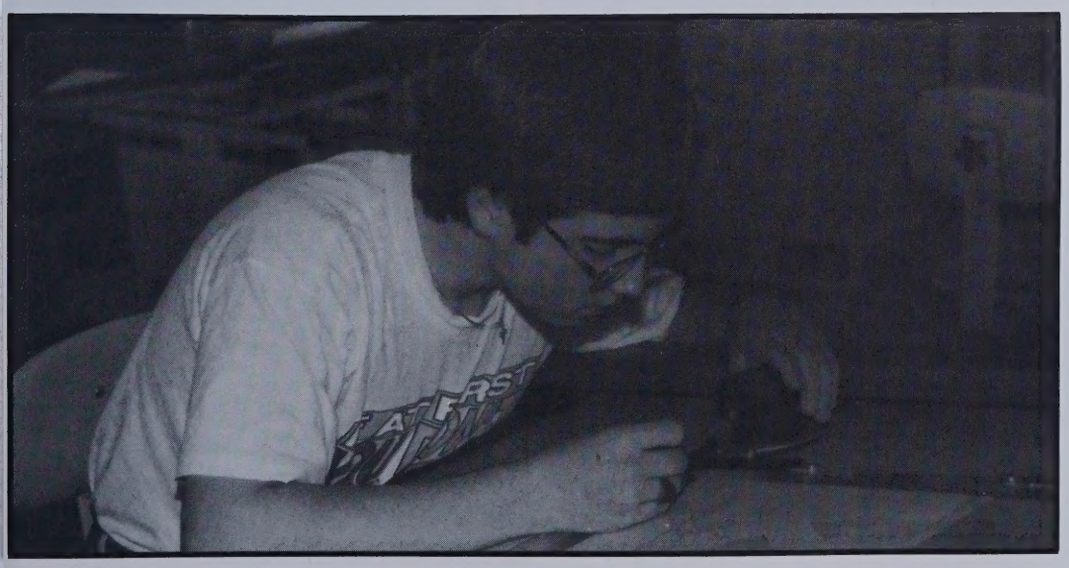
Drafting is loads of fun if you like building things. The students draw their own model homes and then they build them. All of the students have different ways to do it. Three years of drafting were available in addition to Architectural Drafting. In electricity the students learn to do such things as wiring and printed circuits. They also learn how to fix household appliances, a very useful skill. Two years of electricity classes were taught in addition to Practical Electricity.

Basic graphics, basic auto mechanics, and basic building trades were taught to students with an interest in taking the longer vocational classes in that same area the following year.

Using a router to prepare an arm for the swing he is making is Josh Newbauer. Josh's swing was outstanding enough to be entered in woodworking competitions.

Matt DePew works by himself as Jenny Eckert helps Scott Vincent to drill holes for his toy tractor parts.

The Basic Graphics class became computerized as part of the expansion. Left, Dawn Castator uses the graphics Macintosh.



Did you forget your eye protection, Mark? Mark Buchs uses the sander to smooth his piece of wood for his project.

Drafting student Aaron Price makes some careful adjustments as he works on his latest assignment from Mr. Voelkel.

Mathematics

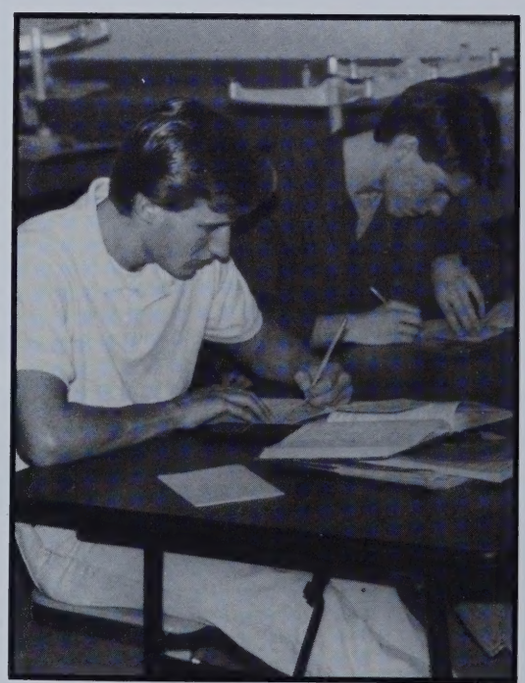
skills are sharpened in classes ranging from General Math to Calculus; Business classes teach accounting, computer use, more!

Nearly every student at DHS spends at least one period a day in a class dealing with either math or business. In fact, many Barons spend more than one hour a day studying either one or a combination of those subjects.

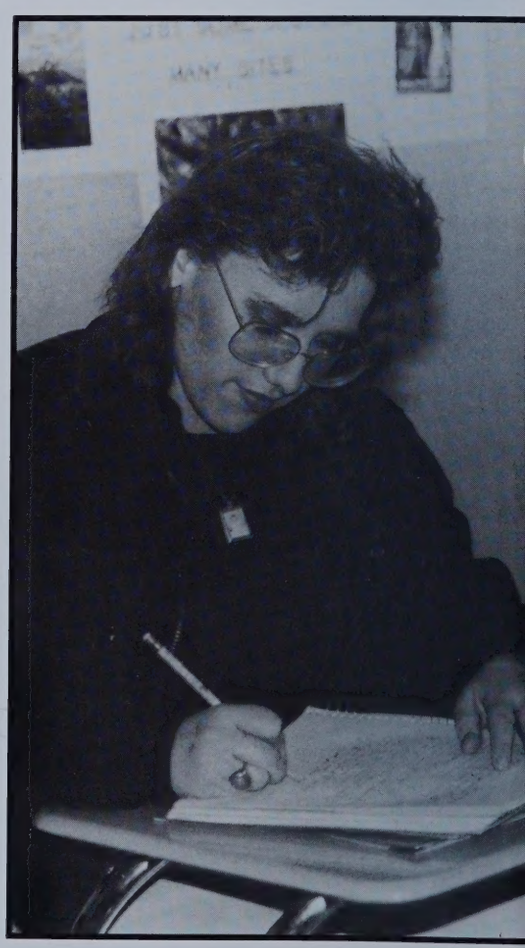
The Business Department benefited a great deal from last year's building program so that the entire department found itself in expanded quarters this year, a bonus for both students and teachers. With the equivalent of four full-time teachers on the staff, everything from Personal Keyboarding through a year and a half of Computer Programming was taught.

Students who have an interest in office work could study two years of Shorthand, Office Procedures, or even a two-hour long Intensive Office Lab, which also involved working in various offices in the community. Other Business Department offerings were Recordkeeping, Accounting I and II, Introduction to Business, Business Math, and Business Law. All business classes are electives.

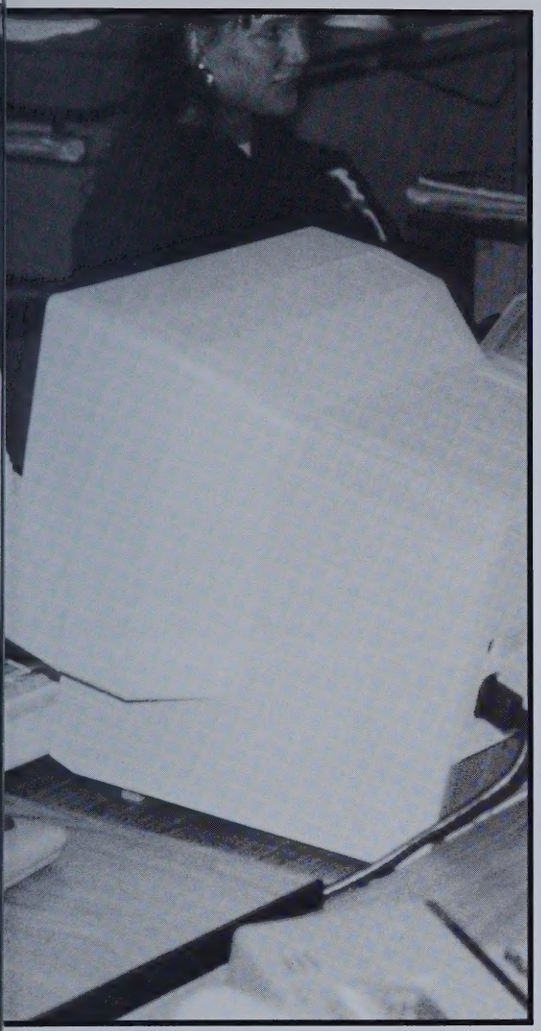
Seven faculty positions were devoted to teaching in the Math Department. Since two years of math are required for graduation, a wide range of classes is available in order to meet everyone's needs. General Math I and II try to help students in handling real numbers and working on problem solving. Other math classes range all the way from Pre-Algebra through Geometry to a full year of Calculus for the college-bound.



With their calculators close at hand, Collier Cannon and Jeremy Shankster hope that their accounting balances will be right.

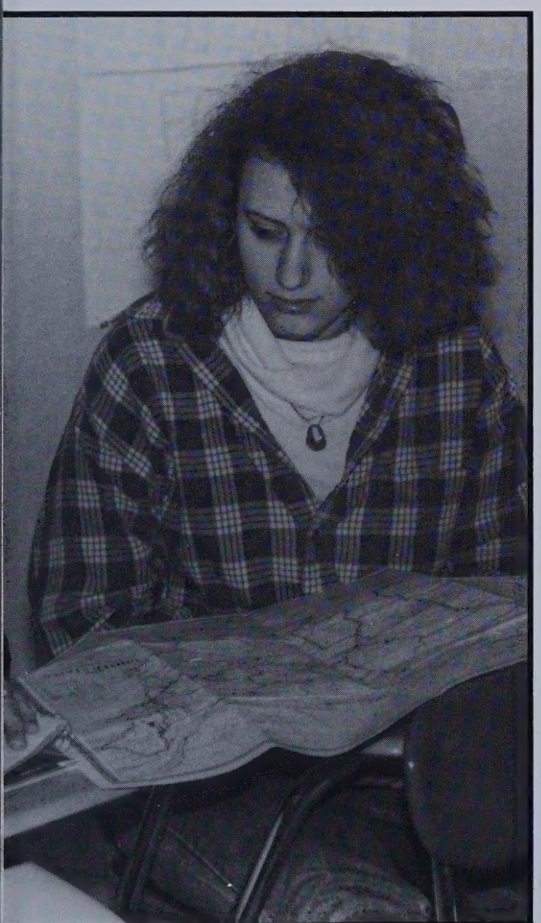


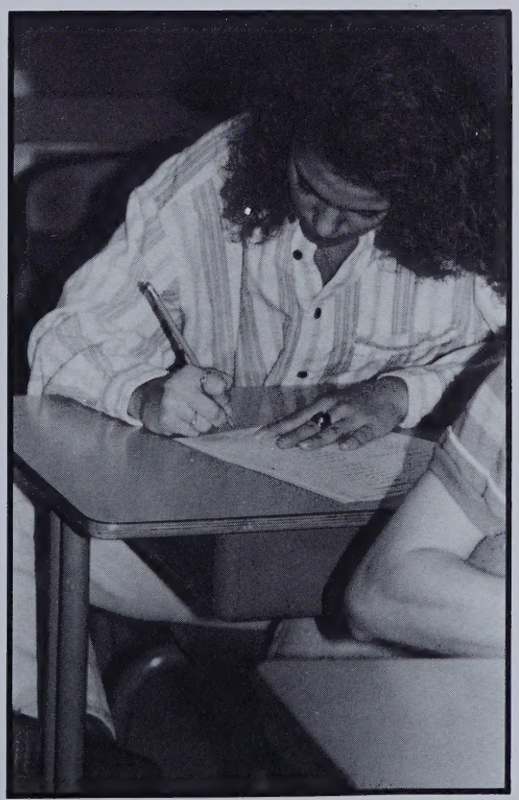
Teamwork is the name of the game as Bridget Parker and Jaime Franks do a project for Introduction to Business (right).



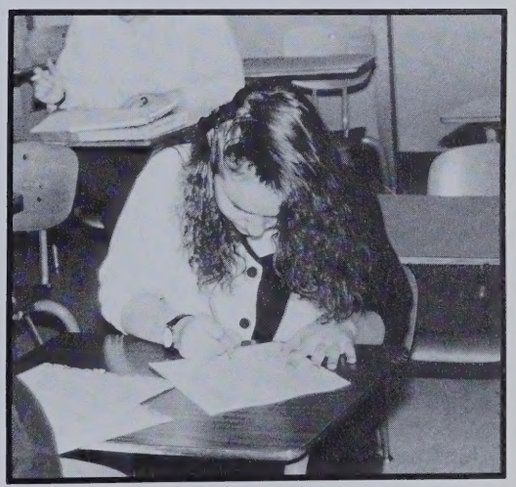
Office Procedures involves assignments that might be encountered on the job. Left, Devra Ybarra gets some practice in keyboarding.

Putting the shapes on the chalkboard, Mrs. Barb Oneal gives her students a quiz about the proper formulas.





Clutching her pencil tightly as she tries to come up with the right answer is Kelly Morrow in Algebra II class.



It's another one of those quizes in General Math I. Cecily Moore works carefully, hoping that she will do well.

Junior and senior social studies classes combined for a week of studying drug awareness. Above, they listen to a guest speaker.

Getting hands-on experience in their Biology II class (right) are juniors Wendy Recker, Kari Price, and Wade Marsh.

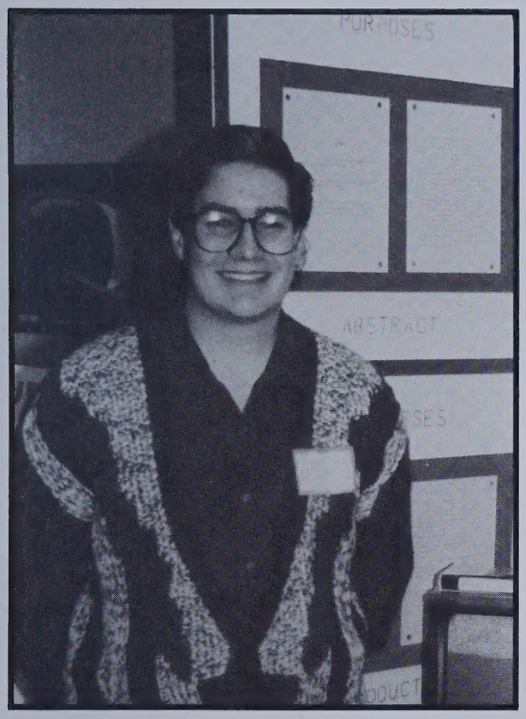
Seeing is believing. Simon Dunn's Science Fair project deals with the effects on blood pressure after viewing various pictures.



Scientists

excel in exhibits at local, area Science Fairs; Oceanography is new class; Social studies students learn of past, present, future!

Learning takes place in many different areas at DHS. Two of the larger departments holding classes on the second floor are Social Studies and Science. These two subject areas are also key elements as students competed in the Academic Super Bowl.

The Social Studies department offers such classes as U. S. history, government, and economics in addition to psychology, advanced psychology, current social problems, sociology, and world history. Students learned about the world through field trips, guest speakers, and other activities.

Students experienced a lot in the Science department. They got the chance to cut up such things as rats, pigs, and fish. Students in Chemistry I and II, physical science, earth science, and physics experienced things outside the classroom in addition to lab work in the classroom . New this year was a class in oceanography, which had an extended field trip over spring break.

As for the Science Fair, there were a wide range of projects displayed. Louis Wolff got first place for the senior division. For the ninth grade, David Hefty won first place.

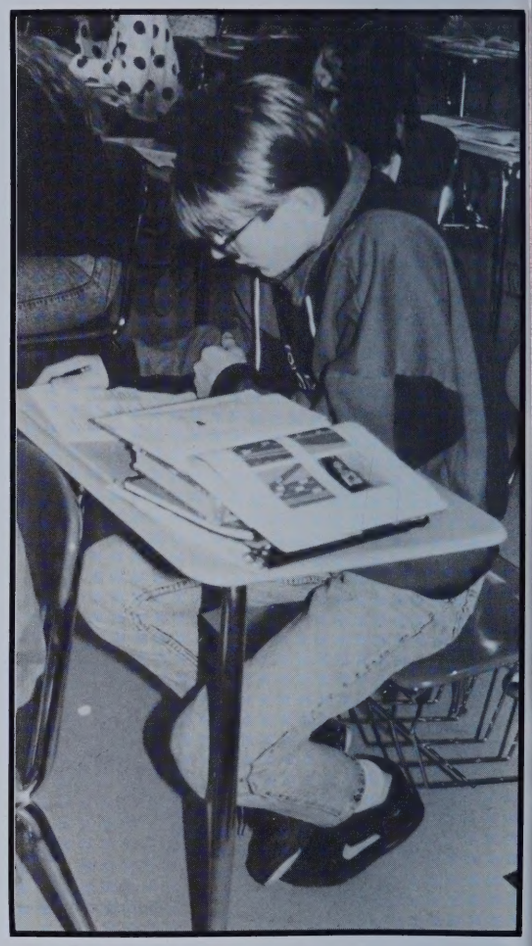
DeKalb participated in the sixth annual area Hoosier Academic Super Bowl. The DHS team placed sixth in math, eighth in English, seventh in science, sixth in fine arts, tied for fourth in social studies and eighth in interdisciplinary out of twenty-one schools.

Ben Garrison, Marc Bowling, Seth Paske, and Trent Johnson seem interested as they try to identify their rat's vital organs.

Healthy

minds in healthy bodies is the goal as Physical Education classes put Barons through their paces!

Doing a work sheet in Drivers Ed is Brad Stockamp, who is probably hoping that some day he will get his license to drive.



The physical education department consists of demanding yet necessary classes. Four of them are Physical Education, Health, Quest, and Drivers Education.

Physical Education has classes for both boys and girls. Its purpose is to promote physical fitness. Both boys and girls played many sports such as volleyball, table tennis, and basketball. Besides the required class, an elective was also available for juniors and seniors.

Health is a class that presents problems that teenagers have today. Such problems include tobacco, alcohol, suicide, death, and stress.

Quest has a goal to improve the quality of family life. It emphasizes the expression of emotion, decision-making, acting, and communicating.

Drivers Ed Book is designed to help develop the knowledge and skills to become a safe driver. One activity included checking student's cars in the parking lot to see if they were safe to drive. They also checked to see if the cars were locked and had the proper identification. This class must be completed before the student can take part in the summer school class involving on-the-road driving.

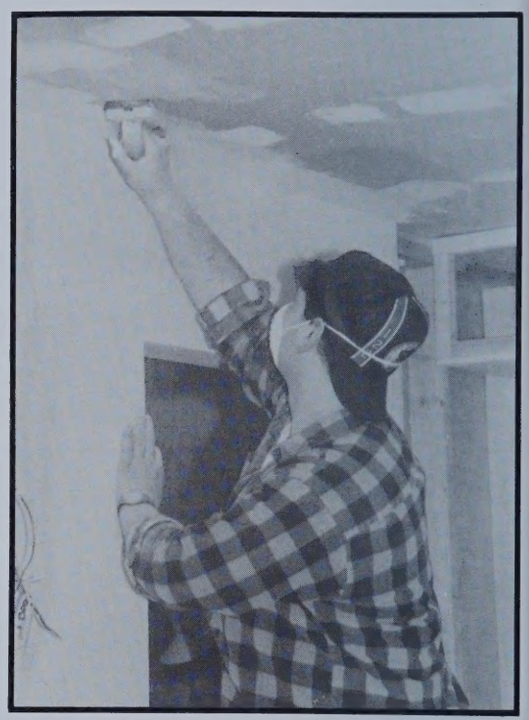
Vocational

Agri-Business, Auto Mechanics, Building Trades, Graphic Arts are popular; Health Occupations Education (HOE) is added!



Building Trades student Randy Beber wears protection against the dust as he sands the ceiling of the project house.

The Vocational Arts classes included the Vocational Agri-business classes, the Graphic Arts and Auto Mechanics labs, Building Trades, and Health Occupation Education. HOE, new in 1991-92, is a three hour class that provides students with the opportunity to explore various medical and health-care vocations through observation and participation in hospitals and health care agencies within the community. This class is geared for seniors with an interest in the health care or medical field.

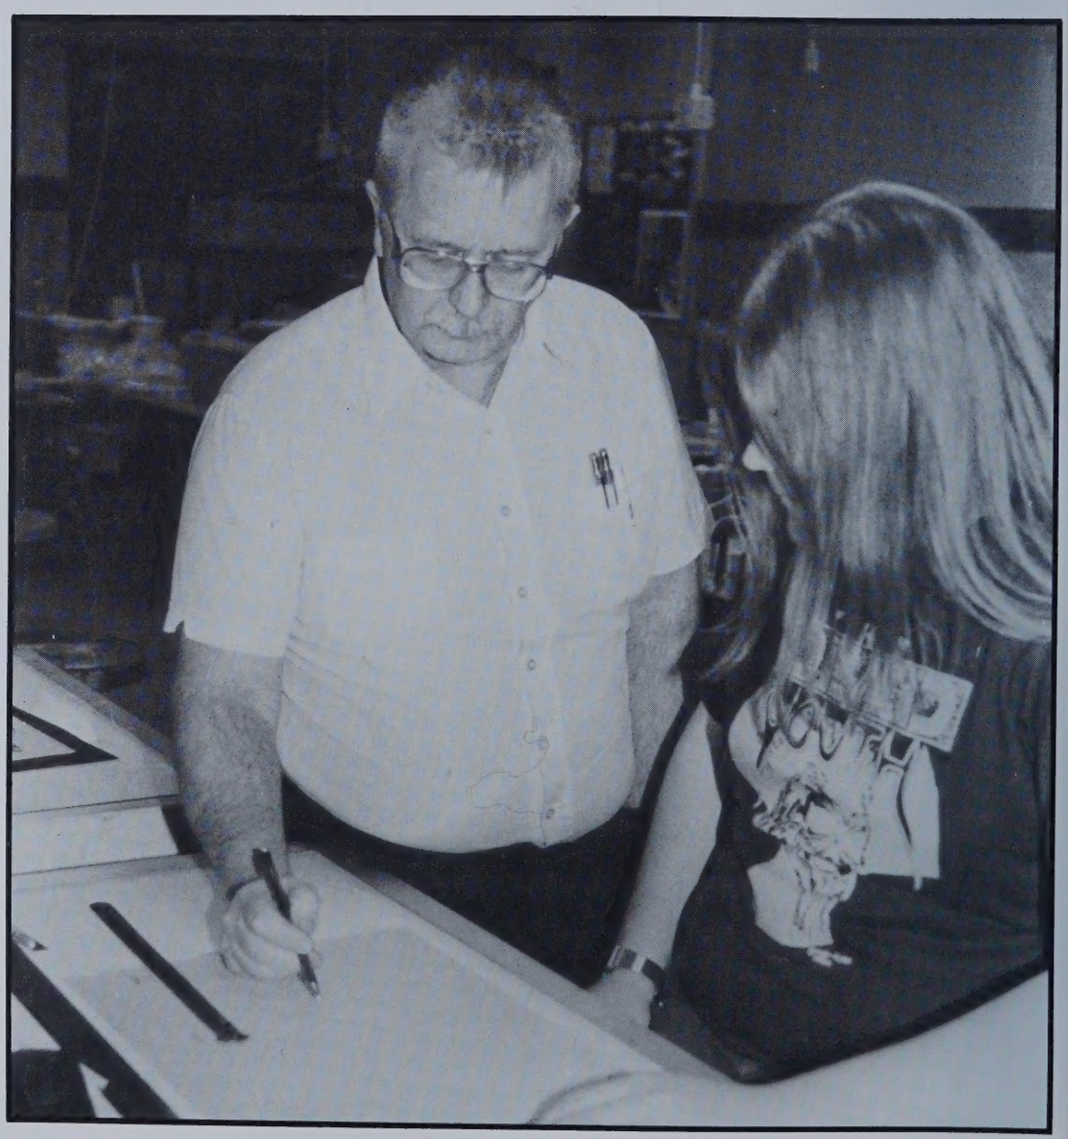
Building Trades is for juniors and seniors. Some of the students who are seniors were also in last year's class. The class project was building a house on the east side of Auburn. It was hoped that the house would be completed before graduation.

The Auto Mechanics lab means a lot to most of the students because cars are dear to the heart of most teenagers. The students learned how to do everything from performing routine maintenance to rebuilding an entire engine.

The Graphic Arts lab helped students learn all aspects of off-set printing. The class was responsible for printing all kinds of programs for sports, tickets, and even the Baron Shield.

The Vocational Agri-business classes covered everything from leadership development and animal nutrition to machinery repair and maintenance to grain and livestock marketing methods.

Students in all of these vocational classes had a good chance to prepare themselves for future careers.



"Now here's what I want you to do!" Russell Bean listens as Mr. Jim Murdock explains the next Graphic Arts assignment.

Connection

of the Classic variety performs for the community, earns honors in contests and travels to Florida Showstoppers!

The Classic Connection, DHS's show choir, performed many times during the 1991-92 school year. Such performances included the Bluffton Street Fair, which won them a first place trophy. They also placed first in the DeKalb Fair show choir competition and took part in the Northrop Spectacular. Other activities included a contest in Piqua, Ohio, and hosting the first DeKalb Invitational on February 15.

In the NHC contest, Classic Connection placed second, earning honors for best choreography, best horns, best keyboards, and best percussion. Additional contests and placings were as follows: Bishop Luers, fifth; Pekin, Illinois, fifth; Lawrence Central, fourth; Mt. Zion, fifth; and Center Grove, sixth. Many members of the choir did quite well taking part in the ISSMA solo and ensemble contest.

A highlight of the year came at the Carroll contest when the show choir earned Grand Champion honors including the award for best choreography. Another highlight was the trip to Florida to take part in the Florida Showstoppers, where they placed eighth.

The boys' show choir competed twice, placing first each time. Their competitions were at Lawrence Central and Mt. Zion.

The Classic Connection performed many times in the local community as well. Several concerts were held during the year as well as performing for school convos and as the opening night show choir at Show Choir Camps of America.

Stand up tall and project your voices. These members of the Classic Connection seem to have learned their lesson well.

Sensations

in sound are the Concert Choir and Girls Choir, which spend long hours of practice to perfect their musical performances!

Although the Show Choir, also known as the Classic Connection, gets most of the publicity and attention, it should not be forgotten that there are other choirs at DHS as well. The largest choir is the Concert Choir. Composed of both male and female voices, Concert Choir worked on a repertory ranging from serious classical music to light show tunes. They performed in the Christmas concert as well as in the spring during Fine Arts weekend. Taking part in the ISSMA contest in the spring, Concert Choir competed in Group III and came home with a first place, ranking first also in the sightreading portion of the competition.

The other major choir at DHS is the Girls Choir, also known as the Sound Sensation when they go into the show choir phase of their program. They also performed at the Christmas and spring concerts. Sound Sensation took part in several competitions during the year. At the DeKalb Fair in the fall they placed third. Second place ratings were earned at both Lawrence Central and at the Mt. Zion Contest. In the ISSMA in the spring, competing in Group III, Sound Sensation received a second place, with a first in sightreading. Members of both the Concert Choir and Girls Choir, although they don't perform as often as the Classic Connection does, put in many hours learning to harmonize their voices in order to put on a good performance for their audiences.

Girls Choir: Julie Aschleman, Amanda Bowser, LeAnn Boyles, Amy Buckmaster, Holly Buckmaster, Jill Clark, Lindsay Dunn, Gloria Farr, Shawn Gonzalez, Toni Groff, Jena Henson, Tricia Hertsel, Rachel Hicks, Kim Householder, Amanda Hower, Lisa Jurkeiwicz, Heather Kees, Janet Kiefer, Alisa Moore, Diana Palubicki, Emily Roberts, Stephanie Rutter, Moneia Slentz, Liberty Smith, Chasidy Thompson, Kelly Wagner, Dawn Wayt, Brandy Wimer. Accompanists: Mike Carper, Kyle Kessler, Eric John.

"The Farewell Song" has these members of the Sound Sensation (Girls Choir) thinking about the seniors who will soon be graduating.

Concert Choir: Chris Baysinger, Jaime Boger, Nicki Bolen, Mitch Boyd, LeAnn Boyles, Cindy Jo Bradley, Jyl Brown, Rachel Butler, Addam Camp, Shelley Damstra, Tammy Day, Jaymee Deetz, Jacob Depew, Jenny Diehl, Christie Ellert, Carrie Erwin, Gloria Farr, Lisa Freeman, Kara Gillian, Jessica Goldsmith, Shannon Haifley, Kerry Haiflich, Amy Hansen, Crissi Hardy, Taya Hess, Todd Higgins, Betty Hughes, Chris Jarnigan, Beth Kessler, Randy King, Paul Kuhlhorst, Melissa Levy, Sheri Lewis, Heather Marhenke, Melissa Meyer, Tony Miser, Carrie Morrow, Jason Morton, Billy Myers, Ryan Myers, Holly Orwig, Joel Pfister, Lana Pitney, Melanie Roe, Christy Rollins, Patsy Ross, Lisa Scheurich, Mindy Schmidt, Kevin Sells, Amy Shelton, Moneia Slentz, Amie Springer, Faith Stickney, Steve Strobel, Chasidy Thompson, Miguel Vasquez, Dawn Wayt, Tony Wells, Melissa Wetzel, Betsy Wilshere, Denise Worman, Jennifer Barnhart, Aaron Godwin, Shannon Wade, Sarah Buzzard, Chanda Conkle, Tonya Belcher, Kara Ginder.

Cross Country

State Finals Trip Again Caps Very Rewarding Year

The girls' cross country team had a very rewarding season. They won conference, sectional, and regional for the second year in a row. Hard work, dedication, and improving individual times contributed to the team's success.

"The team accomplished a lot this year," said Missy Lyne, top runner for the team. Missy broke the school record last year with a time of 15:14. She did even better this year, ending her season at state with a time of 15:03. She was later named to the first team all-state.

The cross country runners came home from all three invitationals they competed in with first place. They went to state again and came home in eleventh place. Kim Reinoehl summed it up when she said, "Being in cross country cannot compare to anything else because the closeness of the hard-working people makes for all around success and fun."

Dendinger Is Undefeated; Team Makes Regional Finals

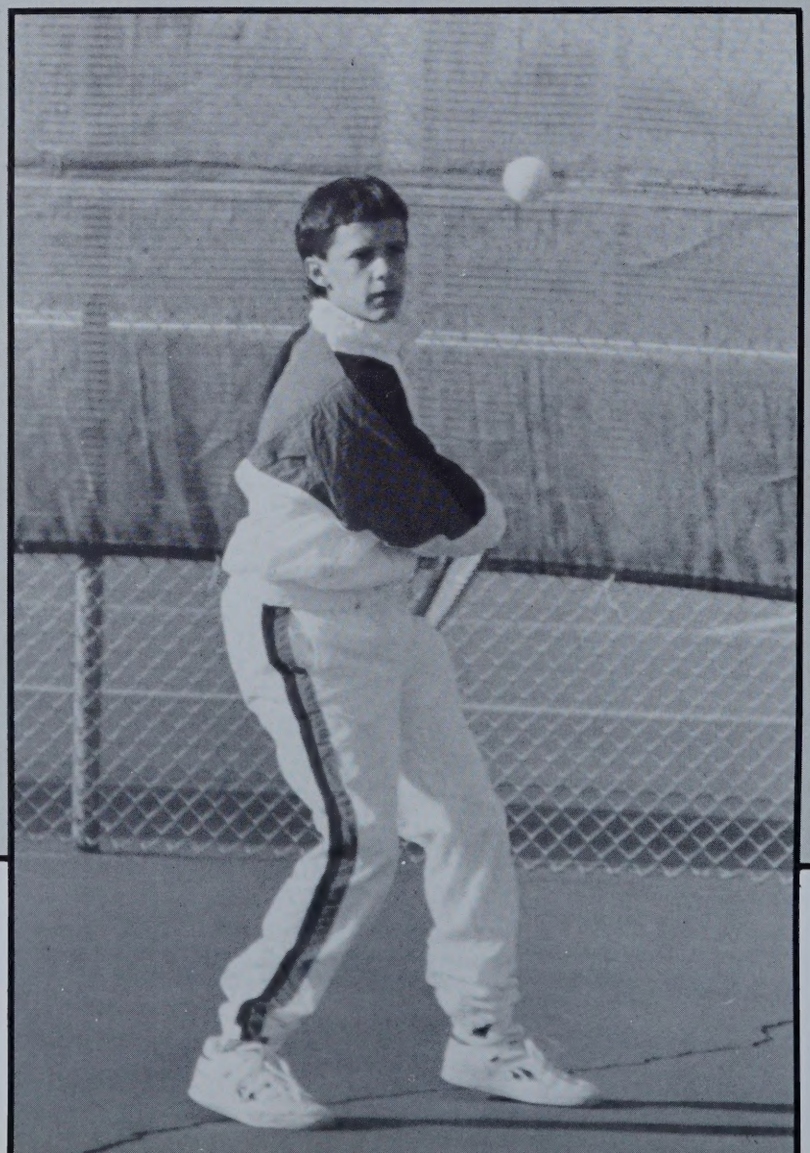
Nobody really expected it. When the tennis team set the sectional championship as their goal, they thought they were aiming high, but they managed to take it one step farther and win their first match in regional to become a finalist there, losing to Elkhart Central 2-3.

Other accomplishments of the team included placing second in their own Invitational and first in the North Side Invitational. The team finished third in the race for the conference title with a 5-2 record in the NHC.

Junior Mike Dendinger, playing at number two singles, made the first team all-conference by virtue of his perfect 22-0 year. This tied the all-time single season record for wins.

The number one doubles team of Shae Keller and Andy Hayes (17-5) were named to the NHC second team. Keller gave much of the credit for their success to his partner: "Andy kept me up at key times during the match when I was feeling as if nothing was going right." Number three singles player, freshman Derek Markley (18-4) received NHC honorable mention recognition.

Showing a strong follow-through is freshman Derek Markley, who had an 18-4 season.



Concentration on the ball shows in the eyes of undefeated junior Mike Dendinger.

"I owe much of my success of my perfect 22-0 season to our assistant coach, Father Tom Lallak,because he helped my mental game."

CROSS COUNTRY

Washler,Shankster Lead Team As Runners Reach Semi-State

Continuing to build a strong tradition was the task of the boys' cross country team. They finished 9-1 in dual meets and finished no lower than 4th in other meets and invitationals until their fifth place finish at semi-state saw them fall just a few points short of making a trip to the state meet.

One highlight of the year was on October 12 at Bixler Lake in Kendallville when the guys put it all together and won the NHC, beating an East Noble team that was their nemesis for most of the year. This gave the Baron teams a sweep of the conference.

Leading the team through most of the year were Jason Washler and Jeremy Shankster, both of whom recorded their best times at the West Noble Invitational, where Washler was timed at 15:59 and Shankster was one second behind at 16:00. Both of these runners also made first team all-conference.

August Two-A-Days Are Not Where It All Started

The varsity football team had one of its best seasons yet. According to senior Dwayne Leininger, teamwork was a major factor in this success: "We didn't just get together for the first time during two-a-days in August. We ran and worked out together all summer long. Baron teams come and go, but I don't think there will ever be another team that worked as hard, and that was as close as the Barons of '91."

The Barons did their share of running over opponents during the season as they compiled a total of 2248 yards rushing on 541 carries for an average of 249.8 yards per game. Jason Fike led the team with 451 yards on 132 carries with an average of 3.42 yards per carry. Tim Blomeke followed with 308 yards and 72 carries with an average of 4.28 yards per carry.

On the defensive side, John Bickel led the team with 83 solo tackles. He also led in assists. Todd Likens led the team with 4 interceptions. Lee Pettyjohn led the team with 5 sacks, and Todd Stayer's 2 blocked kicks was the team-high in that category.

The longest rushing gains from the line of scrimmage were by Jason Fike,34 yards; Dwayne Leininger, 33; and Todd Likens, 32. Quarterback Tim Holwerda completed 62 of his 135 passing attempts for 593 total yards. The longest receptions were by Kadish Evans, 30 yards, and Brent Bailey, 27 yards. Punter Brad Weber averaged 30.9 yards per kick, with the longest being for an astonishing 74 yards.

Reserves

JV, Freshman Squads Experience Ups, Downs

It is trite but true that the reserve and freshman seasons are spent gaining experience. In volleyball and football, only the reserve football team had a losing record. The freshman football team ended up 5-3, with all three losses being by one touchdown or less.

The reserve volleyball team, 17-11, placed third in the Bellmont JV tourney. The top hitters were Megan Bechdol, Jenny Barnett, and Melissa Sutton. The top setters were Staci Keller, Minde Lewis, and Tracy Hubbard.

Freshman volleyballers, at 13-8, won the Prairie Heights Invitational. Leading the team were Sara Levy, April Marshall and Dawn Strawbridge, hitters; Jill Borden and Jaimi Mitchell, setters; and Darcy Alexander, April Marshall, and Dawn Strawbridge, servers.

All four of these teams experienced both successes and failures and hope that the lessons learned will prove valuable in future seasons.

W. Recker, Zeigler, Cook Win Conference Honors

The varsity volleyball team finished its season with a 22-14 record. The team once again won the Whitko Invitational and the sectional championships. The team consisted of five sophomores, five juniors,and only two seniors.

The captains of the volleyball team were Suzanne Reese,Michelle Cashdollar,and Wendy Recker. Individual leaders were as follows: kills,Wendy Recker with 235;aces,Heather Zeigler with 88;assists,Tiffany Cook with 369;digs,Suzanne Reese with 164;and blocks,Wendy Recker with 92.

Head coach Mrs. Chris Likens had a lot to be proud of this year. Not only did they end up with a record of 22-14,they were also 4-3 in the NHC.

Wendy Recker made first team all-conference as the middle hitter. Heather Zeigler made second team all-conference as a middle hitter. Honorable mention went to setter Tiffany Cook.

The team ended its season with a loss to a tough Bishop Luers team. But they had no regrets as they had fun playing as a team.

Team Shows Improvement As Individual Scores Come Down

The girls' golf team has not been the most successful athletic team at DHS in recent years. The 1991 varsity team again won only one match, but they were often much closer to their opponents than they had been in previous years and many of the girls showed marked improvement throughout the season. The most improved golfer was reserve team member Candy Cluster, whose score improved by 41 strokes, going down to 62 from an opening score of 103.

Team scores in the three 18 hole competitions all improved from 1990, coming down an average of 42 strokes.

All of the girl golfers had their good days and their bad days. On their best days, this is how they scored: Shawna Skelding, 52; Angi Nehrenz, 55; Amy Oswalt, Lisa Wrona, and Nicki Houser, 56; Shannon Wade, 59; Candy Cluster, 62; and Colleen McNabb, 72.

One way to lower one's golf score is to take fewer putts. Team leaders in this area were Lisa Wrona and Angi Nehrenz, each of whom had a round of golf with only 15 putts.

One other area in which first-year coach Pam Schultz gave two team members special recognition was as the most aggressive golfers. Both Lisa Wrona and Shawna Skelding received mention in this area because of their tendency toward breaking their golf clubs.

Varsity Squad Goes To Myrtle Beach Nationals

The DHS cheerleaders had a very busy and rewarding year. The squad started the year with a 5-day camp at DHS sponsored by Cheer LTD. from Fayetteville, N.C. They also sponsored a 3-day mini-camp for elementary students. .

Varsity level competitions included Elkhart County Fair (2nd), LaGrange County Fair, Garrett Days (1st), Indiana State Fair, and ICA competition in the fall sponsored by the Division of Student Activities.

In early fall, the Varsity received an invitation to the CANAM Challenge Cup international competition based on their summer camp performance. Only 200 squads from a field of 40.000 were invited to compete. The varsity raised funds for the trip through the sale of spirit ribbons, 50/50 tickets at the basketball games and M & M candy plus holding a cheerleader fun day in February. Local businesses and individuals donated toward transportation. The cheerleaders attended the competition March 27-29 at Myrtle Beach, S.C. and placed tenth overall in the small varsity all-girl division.

Lundy Leads Coaching Staff To Continue Winning Ways

With a new coaching staff in charge of the girls' basketball program, many changes were in order, but the winning tradition established in the past still remained. "I think the players and the coaching staff adjusted well and we were rewarded with a successful season," said Wendy Recker, junior.

Junior Tara Muzzillo summed it up, saying, "We learned to play as a team. We had our points of struggle throughout the season, but when sectional time came, we pulled together and played as a team and not as individuals. I am very proud to say we were the regional finalist and we well deserved it."

The most remarkable game of the year came in the regional when they became finalists by making up a huge deficit and rolling on to win by 19 points over Homestead.

Leading scorers for the Lady Barons were Wendy Recker, with 304 points/13.8 per game, and Tara Muzzillo, with 239 points/12.0 per game. Also scoring over 100 points were Annie Recker (187) and Piper Merrell (122). Muzzillo also had 158 rebounds, 22 blocked shots, and hit 75.6 per cent of her free throws. Also over 70 per cent in free throws was Piper Merrell (72.2 per cent).

Reserve, Freshman Teams Have Interesting Moments

The underclass teams in the girls' basketball program gave their first-year coaches and the fans some interesting moments. Having combined records of 14-16, the individual team's records were much more lopsided.

The reserve squad showed improvement throughout the entire season. After eight straight losses, the reserves finally won their first game in the cpening contest of the holiday tournament. At that point in the season things were looking up and in almost every contest after their first win they played their opponents tough.

Andrea Pettis led the reserve squad with 101 points. Karen Nodine was next with 45 points and Myka Merrell and freshman Sarah Levy each had 40.

The freshman team was more successful as the class of 1995 showed a lot of promise when it came to basketball. This group of players was a pleasure to watch play as they pressed their way to many victories.

At mid-season the freshman group also started seeing some action on the reserve squad and even on nights when all of them were not together, this team came away with some impressive victories. "Every player on this team has a bright future in basketball and I am looking forward to watching them grow into roles on the reserve and varsity level," said Head Coach Roger Lundy.

Mitchell Makes State Meet; Team Scores Record Highs

No matter how you look at it, the gymnastics team had a great season. In fact, they posted the best record in DHS history with their 14-1 season, losing only to NHC rival Homestead. One highlight of the year came the night that they defeated the state-ranked and overconfident Snider team.

It was a year of broken records as the old team total record from 1984 of 94.0 against New Haven was broken eight times, with the new record high coming against Bluffton at 98.30. New event total records were also established in beam (24.80) and floor (26.15). The old team record of 25 for no-fall beam routines was smashed when 54 no-falls were recorded.

The team had a good mix of youth and experience, with members of all four classes making significant contributions. Jaime Mitchell, a freshman, qualified in floor for the state meet, where she posted an 8.75. Seniors Shelby Davidson, Chelsea Pinkerton, and Nita Walker provided the leadership that successful teams usually have.

The reserve team was unbeaten in its 15 meets, establishing a new team total of 82.4. New records were continuously being set in bars (20.3), beam (21.95), and floor (21.90).

Oberlin Posts 26-4 Year, Joins Hunter at Semi-State

Although the varsity wrestling team had a winning record at 10-8, their season was not easy. There were four different tournaments that the varsity team competed in. They placed a disappointing seventh in the Northeast Hoosier Conference, fourth in the East Noble Invitational and Carroll Sectional, and tenth in the Carroll Regional. DHS scored 585 points in dual meets compared to 679 for the opponents.

Andy Oberlin had the best record of 26-4. Jim Forbes had the fastest fall of 11 seconds. Oberlin made the most falls with 15. Jason Hunter had the most decisions at 10. Scoring the most points with 337 was Oberlin with Jeremy Bowers second with 239 points.

Other team-leading stats included Oberlin with most takedowns (35), most 2-point nearfalls (13), and most 3-point nearfalls (15). James DeWitt had the top number of escapes with 21.

In the Carroll Sectional Andy Oberlin placed first and James DeWitt and Jason Hunter placed second. Oberlin and Hunter eventually advanced to the Fort Wayne Semi-state, where Hunter lost in the first round to John Frysinger of Huntington North. Oberlin lost in the second round to conference rival Jim Meyers of Bellmont after beating Dave Maupin of Frankton.

The junior varsity had a 7-6 record. Chad Buchs had the best individual jv record of 11-3. Brad Songer had the fastest fall in 26 seconds and the most falls at 8. Craig Sonner contributed to the jv's with most points (169), most takedowns (28), and most escapes (15).

Winning Tradition Returns As Barons Win 13, Lose 10

What a difference a year makes! After the disastrous season of the previous year with no wins in the regular season, there was virtually no way to go but up for this year's varsity boys' basketball team. They ended up with a winning record of 13-10, a first for DeKalb in recent years. The season came to an untimely end in the Garrett sectional semi-finals with a one-point loss to Hamilton, who had staged a fourth quarter come-from-behind rally.

Although the regular season conference record was 3-4, the Barons were finalists in the NHC tournament, losing to Carroll 55-68 in Fort Wayne's Coliseum on Saturday, January 18.

Everyone on the team contributed to its success. Some of these contributions show up in the statistics and some don't. Among the statistical leaders were four players who scored over 200 points. These were Tim Holwerda (307), Doug Kelley (244), Andy Schmidt (219), and Matt Bechdol (210). Three players had over .500 in total field goal shooting percentage: Derrick Bowers (.552), Matt Bechdol (.539), and Doug Kelley (.519). Leading the way from the three-point line with a percentage of .427 was Andy Schmidt.

Other significant statistical contributions were made by Chad Ginder, who dished out a team-high 130 assists and averaged 7.3 points per game. Leading rebounders were Holwerda and Kelley, with 151 and 147 rebounds respectively.

Teams Deal With Challenges To Overcome Inexperience

Playing at the underclass level in the boys' basketball program was a challenge in 1991-92. Both the junior varsity and freshman teams had problems as they struggled to learn the finer points of the game. The reserves broke even at 10-10 with their competition, but the freshmen were able to win only 4 of their 19 games.

The reserve team did fairly well in field goal shooting percentage, hitting 46 per cent of the time, but they needed more work on free throws, scoring only 53 per cent of the time from the charity stripe. Josh Barnett led the team in the two categories of scoring and assists. The top junior varsity rebounder was Mike Christner.

The freshmen were hampered by the fact that few team members had any previous experience in interscholastic competition. The top two scorers were forwards Jason Magnuson, with 173 points, and Ben Seigel, who tallied 156 points. The top freshman rebounder was Frank Cook with 76, and the assist leader was Jason Ulm with 34.

The girls' track team had an average year, with a 5-4 dual record and their best finish otherwise being for third place at the Oak Hill Relays. But some members of the team had outstanding individual seasons.

Sophomore Missy Lyne had the best season of all, breaking records several times in her specialty races of 1600 and 3200 meters. She advanced all the way to the state meet on June 5, where she finished twelfth in the 1600 in a new school record time of 5:19.9. In the 3200 at state, Lynn placed eighth, finishing in 11:23.08, another new school record. She also finished first in the 3200 in the conference meet in a new NHC record of 11:38.65, which set a new C.E. Young Field record as well.

Besides Lyne, other team members advanced to the regional as a result of placing high enough in the sectional. Kelly Morrow qualified in the 100 (2nd) and the 200 (4th). In addition, Morrow, Jenny Hartman, Shannon Wolff, and Michelle Wright combined in the 4x100 relay for third place. Wolff also qualified in the 100 with a third place finish. Two runners in the 800 advanced to the regional: Darlene Schoudel and Jenny Recker.

In all, twenty team members contributed varsity points to the team. In addition to those named already, those who earned at least 19 points were Cheryl Conrad, Kami Rathburn, Janet Kiefer, Shannen Amburgey, Justine Wells, and Kim Reinoehl.

The boys' track team had a lot to be proud of. They won sectional, placed third at regional, and finished second in the Northeast Hoosier Conference. Derrick Bowers, a junior, was the varsity points leader. Bowers set new school records in 110 high hurdles (13.7) and 300 meter hurdles (38.23). He was also named Athlete of the Meet at the Oak Hill and the Goshen Relays.

In the 1600 meters, Jeremy Shankster and Jason Washler took turns breaking the school record, with Shankster having the last say at the NHC with a new school and track record of 4:19.30.

Bowers, Shankster, and Washler represented DHS at state. Going into the state meet, Shankster (1:56.27 in the 800) and Bowers (13.7 in the 110H) had state-best marks. At state Bowers placed eighth in 110H (14.54) and tenth in 300H (39.06). Shankster was fifth in the 800 (1:57.04) and Washler was sixth in the 3200 (9:32.35).

Making all-conference first team were Bowers in both hurdle events; Shankster, 1600 and 800 meters; and Washler, 3200 meters. Second team honors went to Shankster in the 800 meters and the 4x400 relay team of Bowers, Seth Paske, Matt Meyer, and Shankster. Honorable mention went to Grant Detrick in the long jump.

In addition to team members mentioned already, others who earned at least 30 varsity team points were Darian Osbun, Nick Tarlton, Doug Kelley, and Collier Cannon.

Skelding, Hayes, John Lead Team Averages

The boys' varsity golf team had another winning season in dual meets, but it wasn't always easy. Inconsistent play often caused the results to be in doubt until the last man was in. The season's high point was probbably beating state-ranked Bellmont at Bellmont.

In 18 hole tournaments, their best finish was fifth out of 20 at the Concordia Invitational. Their best score of 331 placed them sixth out of 15 at the sectional.

Individual nine-hole averages for the varsity were Chris Skelding (40.5), Andy Hayes (41.0), Eric John (42.9), and Eric Winebrenner and Mike Nichter (44.5). In eighteen-hole tournaments, the top three varsity averages were Eric John (82.5), Chris Skelding (84.8), and Andy Hayes (85.0).

The reserve golfers had an even better season, compiling a 10-2-1 record.

Using a fairway wood is Eric John, who seems to like keeping his golf clubs close to him.

Wrona's Senior Leadership Takes Team To Regional Finals

The girls' varsity tennis team had its best year, advancing to the regional finals before losing 3-2 to Concord High School. Their season record was an outstanding 15-3. Their 6-1 record in the Northeast Hoosier Conference was good enough for second place. They finished first in their own invitational and second in Angola's invitational.

Much of the team's success was due to senior leadership from the number one singles player, Lisa Wrona. Finishing her fourth year at number one, Wrona, whose record this year was 20-4, set a new school record for most career wins. She placed second at both the DeKalb and Angola Invitationals.

The other two singles players also did a good job for Coach Barb Oneal. At number 2, Melissa Sutton (17-7) was second at DeKalb and third at Angola. Number 3, Tina Gurtner (19-5) was first at DeKalb and third at Angola.

Both doubles teams had identical records with 17 wins and 7 losses. The number one team of Julie Harris and Kati Suomi were first at DeKalb and second at Angola. The number two doubles team of Brooke Henderson and Amy Hayes placed third at DeKalb and fifth at Angola.

Up, Down Season Ends With Loss to Eastside

Head coach Bill Jones seldom knew which of his baseball teams would show up for the game. When they were good, they could play with the best of them; but all too often, the other team put on the Baron uniforms, and then the results were not so good.

Offense seemed to be a problem for the Barons. The team batting average was .254, with only three players hitting over .300: Todd Likens (.414), Steve Blomeke (.333), and Brad Weber (.307). These and other players led the team in several categories. Kadish Evans had 20 walks and 15 stolen bases and scored 28 runs. Todd Stayer had 2 triples and 8 sacrifices. Likens had 8 doubles and 26 RBI's. Weber had 6 home runs.

The pitching staff had a combined ERA of 2.858. Shane Marshall, the work horse of the staff, pitched for over 57 innings, facing 264 batters. He struck out 60 and walked 21 for an ERA of 2.659. Marshall won 5, lost 2, and saved 4. Brad Rudolph had a 5-1 record with a 1.263 ERA. Kadish Evans struck out 33 batters in 35 innings pitched.

The reserve teams for both baseball and softball were composed mainly of freshmen and sophomores who got more experience than they could have on varsity. The baseball junior varsity team started the year with several goals in mind and they reached most of them with their 16-3 season record. Their 6-1 record in the NHC made the conference champs.

The junior varsity baseball team had a combined batting average of .303. Leading hitters Ryan Shultz and Jer Parker both batted .422 for the year. Parker also had 10 walks. Shultz and Tyson Handshoe tied for the most RBI's with 17 each. Shultz also had the most home runs with three.

The pitching staff had an ERA of 2.90, with Scott Greer having the best at 2.17. He struck out 52 while walking only 16. He also was the team's workhorse, being on the mound for 45 innings to compile a 6-1 record. Other pitchers of record were Josh Barnett (4-0), Tyson Handshoe (3-1), Derek Markley (2-1), and Jason Ulm (1-0).

The reserve softball team also had a winning season as they compiled an 8-6 record for the year. The following players were recognized for their various accomplishments: leading hitter, Nicole Whittington; leading defensive player, Brandy Shuherk; stolen bases, Angie Wallace; pitching leader, Meagan Bechdol; outstanding outfielder, Angie Schaab; outstanding infielder, Tara Rathburn; and most improved players, Sabrina Butcher and Kim White.

Slow Start Gives Way To Regional Runners Up

It ended up being a much better season than had been expected. With just one senior, Coach Don Myers had to rely on underclassmen for leadership. Once they were convinced that they could win, they lost only two of their last fourteen games after the opening of the season was marred by several rain delays and postponements due to weather.

A season highlight came in the sectional finals when they defeated state-ranked Garrett 3-2 in extra innings to become the sectional champs.

The team batting average was .305. Six players had batting averages over .300: Angie Boyd (.385), Holly Quickery (.379), April Marshall (.364), Jenny Barnett (.349), Ashlee Dunn (.339), and Steph Sprague (.304). Some of these same girls also led the team in several other categories. Marshall had 32 hits; Quickery, 12 doubles, 23 walks, 23 RBI's, and 20 stolen bases; and Barnett, 5 triples.

Holly Quickery did the majority of the pitching, going 137 innings, compared to 28 for Ericka Rathburn and 6 for Meagan Bechdol. Quickery had 13 wins, 7 losses, and 1 save. Her ERA was 1.635. She struck out 172 batters while walking 61.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Hunter Leads Group Through Successful Year

Student government for 1991-1992 was under the capable leadership of Student Council president Jason Hunter. The council continued most of the traditional activities from the past and added a major new one with the Baron Field Day held in May.

Activities included the adopt-a-kid program with the elementary schools, the visit of the Red Cross bloodmobile, the Sadie Hawkins dance, the clash-of-the-classes dance (won by the juniors), and helping with the March of Dimes Walkathon.

The Student Council served as a forum where students could have their concerns voiced to a higher authority. They started plans for a recycling program, formed a booster committee to sell Baron spirit clothes, and planned a breakfast for Career Day in April.

SPEECH TEAM, NHS

"Speechies" Place Well; "Brains" Help Others

Two of the more active organizations were the National Honor Society and the Speech Team. There were not many weekends when the "speechies" were not on the road to one of their 14 tournaments. They placed in the top five 8 out of 14 times, and placed second in the conference meet.

Placing first in the NHC were Scott Deetz, Drama, and Karla Kelleher, Poetry. Second team all-NHC were Julie Madden, Foreign Extemp, and Trent Johnson, Discussion. Five people qualified for state: Charles Kaduk, Scott Deetz, Julie Madden, Marc Bowling, and Karla Kelleher.

A major purpose of the National Honor Society is to promote academics. They had many activities such as a slave sale, a bowl-a-thon, and a dance. One helpful activity was tutoring students in need of extra help. This was for any student in the school system. New members were named in the fall to give them more time to take part in the group's activities. NHS officers were Heather Ricks, President; Abby Smith, Vice-President; and Libby Barry and Julie Madden, Secretaries.

Timber Ridge Beckons; Drinking, Driving A No-No

Two of the more popular clubs are Ski Club and Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD). Don Myers sponsored the Ski Club. He said that it provides skiing enthusiasts an opportunity to ski at a very reasonable price. Members of the Ski Club traveled many times to the Timber Ridge Ski Area near Kalamazoo, Michigan, on Thursdays.

The SADD chapter is sponsored by Mrs. Tita Gordon. She said that it is an organization to prevent drinking and driving. The SADD chapter had many activities this year. They sold Christmas trees to the public and Egg-grams here at DHS. They sponsored a dance on December 20. They gathered discounts from various places and made Prom Promises. SADD planned a trip to Cedar Point in May for all members and did a program for the middle school students.

SADD also sponsored a convo just before the prom that focused in on the bad results that can come from drinking and driving. They also issued a booklet listing the safe party hosts for DHS and auctioned off the right to throw pies at some brave faculty members.

Crystal Aalders is busy handing out Egg-grams. Mr. Tim Koehl seems happy enough to get one.

Semi-Formal Is Popular; Book Nook Earns Funds

Cultural awareness and enriching experiences were objectives of both the Art Club and the Literary Club. The Art Club had the added goal of raising scholarship money. Sponsored by Mrs. Jan Nagel, the club's executive council included Piper Merrell, Jennifer Drew, Lauren Massey, Zac Bir, Angie Smolek, and Liberty Scholler.

A new Art Club project was the art-for-sale at Christmas. Another Christmas-time project was decorating windows for downtown merchants. They also held a Saturday workshop for fifth graders and sponsored the very successful Valentines semi-formal dance.

The Literary Club also had a special Christmas project when they answered letters to Santa from elementary students. For fund raising, the club held a book fair and a poster fair in addition to opening a used book store, called the Book Nook.

Literary Club members ushered and sold concessions at DHS productions and held a week-long Shakespearean Salute in April celebrating the bard's birthday.

Officers of Literary Club were Mandy Paray, President; Amy Leffel, Vice-President; Patty Vetter, Secretary; Mike Souder, Treasurer; and Eric Joseph, Student Editor. The sponsor was Mrs. Cindy Ziebell.

FFA, FHA, FEA

Three Groups Prepare Members For Future

Among the many organizations at DHS are three that concern themselves with what their members might have as plans for after their graduation from high school or college. These three groups are Future Farmers of America (FFA), the Future Homemakers of America (FHA), and Future Educators in Action (FEA). There are many reasons why these organizations exist. The reasons vary from cooperation development to leadership to helping the community.

FEA is set up to assist those who intend to further their education. Their activities included selling Christmas Treegrams, selling "foolgrams," and raising money for scholarships.

FHA is set up to help develop interests in home economics and its possible careers. Activities included visits to the nursing home and adopting a patient, pizza parties, and creating holiday decorations.

FFA is set up to develop agricultural knowledge. They had many activities including tractor pulls, judging events, national conventions and skating parties. They had a chapter float in the fair parade and earned second place.

Group Sells Concessions; PH Members Earn Shirts

While some Barons are an active part of the Letterwinners Club, others don't know what it is. Mr. Dick McKean sponsors this organization. Tim Holwerda was president; Brian Thomas, vice-president; and Lisa Wrona, secretary-treasurer. The purpose of Letterwinners is to support the athletic department. They do that by working in the concession stands at both girls and boys basketball games. The top point getters for the club were sophomore Garrison Kenner (105), juniors Mike Dendinger (100) and Troy Smith (93), and senior Brandon McBrier (92). Awards and a special dinner were given at the end of basketball season for the top point champs.

Another organization in which many students take part is the Baron Power House. You might have seen people wearing these shirts. Money to purchase shirts and awards for members was raised throughout the year by various activities. Improving and maintaining the weight room facilities is the purpose of this club. Powerhouse officers were as follows: Dwayne Leininger, president; Jon Bickel, vice-president; Ryan Carper and Brad Weber, secretary; and Larry Yarian, treasurer.

SOCCER CLUB, FCA

Team Has 1-12-1 Season; Club Seeks Finest Fries

Soccer is a sport that is becoming more and more popular among DHS students. Competing as a club sport for the last year, the record for the soccer team was 1-12-1. They had 93 shots on goal. Simon Short led the saves with 184. Sean Page had 9, Alex Kiefer 6, and Josh Stuckey, 3. Jason Buckmaster and Jon Souers both had 3 goals, while Kiefer, Mitch Slone, Seannan Mettert, and Jason Wilson all made one goal. Buckmaster and Eric Halbakken had two assists and Souers had one.

FCA (Fellowship of Christian Athletes) is an organization whose purpose is to provide a Christian support group for the students involved in athletics at DHS. They held biweekly meetings on Sunday afternoons at the high school. They also went on a hayride and searched Auburn's restaurants for the finest french fry! There was also a spring retreat which 8 DHS students attended in Marshall, Indiana. Although there were no officers for FCA, Tim Holwerda and Piper Merrell shared the presidential title.

SPANISH, FRENCH CLUBS

Learning Of Cultures Is Groups' Major Goal

Both Spanish Club and French Club were busy with various activities designed to promote a better understanding of their culture and language. The Spanish Club started the year off by attending a pot-luck dinner with authentic Hispanic food in cooperation with the Spanish Club of Garrett High School. They held a Christmas party at Carlos O'Kelly's in Fort Wayne. They also had a Christmas party at the Betz Nursing Home, giving out greeting cards and cookies, singing carols in both English and Spanish , and talking with the residents. Afterwards they went to Pizza Hut for a pizza party.

An awards banquet at Chi Chi's in Fort Wayne honored the most active members of the Spanish Club. For fund raising, they sold football concessions and sponsored an after-game dance.

Both the Spanish Club and the French Club took part in the foreign language banquet.

French Club activities included a continuation of the video exchange with some students in France. They sacked groceries at Scotts for the Cancer Day in the Fall. A Christmas party was followed by going out to do caroling for some special people. The French Club held a banquet in the spring at Le Gourmet in Fort Wayne.

Money-making activities of the French Club included a car wash in the summer, a carnation sale for Valentines Day, and an after-game dance.

On the cultural front, the French Club attended two plays. They viewed "Tartuffe" in Fort Wayne and "Les Miserables" in Toledo.

GERMAN CLUB, F.L. BANQUET

Culture Encountered On Trips, At Banquet

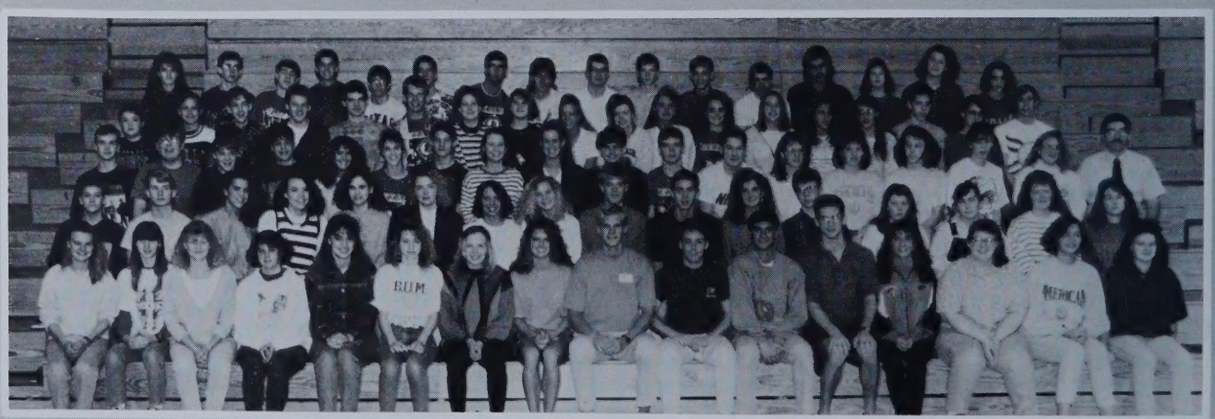
Mr. Greg Vick has been the sponsor of the German Club at DHS for 19 years. This year the officers were Shae Keller, President; Andy McCanna, Vice-President; Kari Price, Secretary; and Beth Shultz, Treasurer. The goal for the German Club was to give as many students as possible the opportunity to learn the German culture.

The club took two field trips. They went to Wayne High School and watched a German-Austrian folk-lore show. They also went to Frankenmuth, Michigan, in April. On July 20, some students even left the country to spend ten days in three German-speaking countries. They also spent some time in Paris.

The German Club was joined by the French and Spanish Clubs to participate in the Foreign Language Banquet held in March. Along with eating foods from the different countries, exotic students also competed in contests. The purpose of the banquet each year is to inform the students of the different cultures.

No peeking! Candy Cluster, a French III student, participates in the crepe-flipping contest.

Germans rule! Mike Dendinger holds the first place ribbon. Spanish was second; French, third.



At the Foreign Language Banquet this group surprises their taste buds with foods from different countries.

Publications Help Students to Learn

The two major publications of DHS are produced partly as extra curricular projects and partly as part of a class. The Journalism Newspaper class produces the Baron Shield and Journalism Yearbook produces the Saber. These classes help to develop the students' writing style and help them to learn about practical journalism.

The Baron Shield is set up to write, lay out, and publish the newspaper nine times during the year. Natalie Gallogly was the Editor-in-Chief; Scott Clevenger was the Business Manager; and Christy Jones and Jamie Ketzenberger were the Assistant Editors. The Baron Shield staff worked hard to purchase a Panasonic 24 pin printer and new software.

The Saber also had some new equipment this year with a new Macintosh LC computer and a laser printer to produce their own headlines and body copy.

The staff was set up to write, lay out and photograph people to complete the yearbook. Though consisting of only eight people, the staff did its best to design a yearbook that their fellow students and the community would like.

Writing copy is just one of the tasks of Saber staff member Michelle Pollack.

Wanna buy a paper? Angie Snider and Mindy Schmidt are visiting homerooms to sell the Shield.

Bert Bush

September 1, 1939--February 21, 1992

News spreads quickly in small communities, so there were few students or teachers arriving at school that Monday morning who had not heard of Mr. Bert Bush's sudden and unexpected death the previous Friday evening.

The subject Mr. Bush taught at DHS was Driver Education. He taught the book class during the year and the driving part during the summer. During 1991-92 he had taken on the added responsibility of being the Assistant Athletic Director. That was not his first association with athletics, as he had been a basketball coach at various levels, compiling a lifetime 275-136 record.

After graduation from Defiance College, Mr. Bush taught at several schools in Ohio and Indiana before coming to DHS in 1975, where he was the junior varsity basketball coach for several years. His patience and courage as a driver education teacher are also noteworthy, and he and his "Bertisms" will be missed by all who knew him.

Office Staff: Rosemary Hartman, Guidance Secretary; Marcy Lannoye, Secretary to the Assistant Principal; Mandy Mitchell, Secretary to the Principal; and Sharon Payne, Bookkeeper.

Teacher Instructional Assistants: Karen Diehl and Marilyn Hilkey.

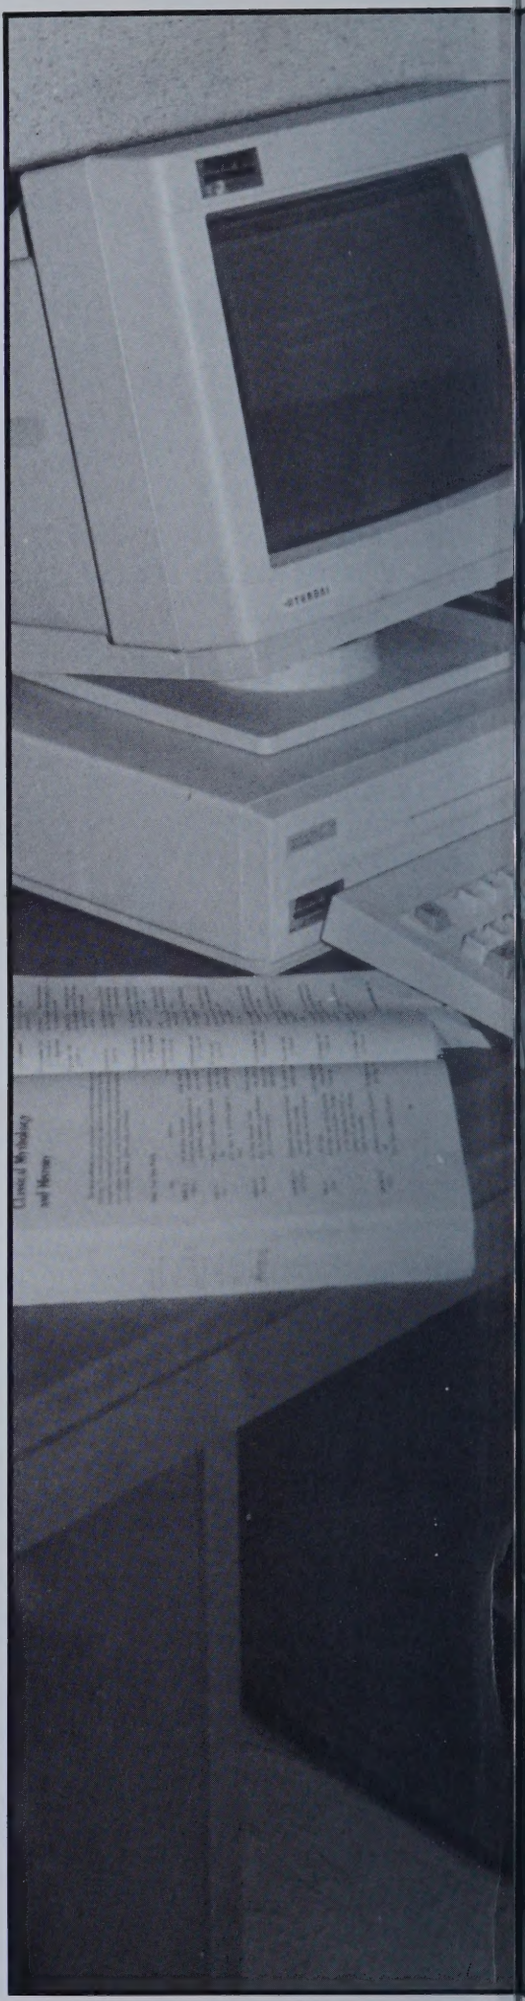
Look at us NOW! Celebrating past accomplishments has become a Baron tradition. Above, members, coaches, and cheerleaders of the 1986 state 4-A championship football team are introduced during a basketball halftime ceremony.

Look at us NOW! Rita Smith and her goat seem to have this child's interest at the Ag Day FFA farm tour.



Look at us NOW! Todd Stayer uses a computer (something virtually unheard-of 25 years ago) to do his vocabulary assignment.

Look at us

And so the Silver Anniversary year for DeKalb High School came to a close. As we said in the Opening, the school is not exactly the same as it was twenty-five years ago. But it is still a place where dedicated and caring teachers do everything they can to help students learn. Look at us NOW!

The world of technology is much more in evidence today. Although the students 25 years ago had TV sets in each classroom, now each room has a color monitor on which a nationally produced news program is watched daily. Computers were virtually unheard-of then, but now nearly every class has some work involving a computer. Look at us NOW!

Competition is still a major factor, but its nature has changed. Girls' athletics is more important, and our conference (NHC) holds competitions in academics and activities as well. We hope you now know more about DHS after taking this opportunity to Look at us NOW!

NOW!

Thanks For Looking!

The staff of the 1992 SABER would like to thank those people who helped to make this yearbook possible: Mr. Mark Childs, Jostens Printing and Publishing Division's representative, for his thoughtful guidance and helpful suggestions; Studio One, the senior photographer; Lifetouch National School Studios, the underclass photographer; and the many companies and sponsors who provided financial assistance. Thanks also goes to the administration for helping us to purchase our Macintosh LC and Pagemaker software, which allowed us to set much of the type ourselves.

How'd We Look?

The 1992 SABER is 9 x 12 and contains 212 pages. The cover is a litho cover in an original design planned by the yearbook staff. The endsheets are white with a special design printed on the front endsheet. The typeface is Times Roman in 12 point for body copy and 10 point for most captions. Other sizes ranging from 8 points to 144 points were also used. Other headline styles such as Helvetica and Courier are used in selected places throughout the book.
